Canton to host charter commission

Canton Township Hall is the first stop in a series of community meetings to solicit public participation in drafting Wayne County's new charter.

The first community meeting of the Charter Commission will be held at 7:30 Thursday at Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, one-half mile south of Cherry Hill Road.

Inkster and Westland will host upcoming meetings in the near future.

George E. Ward, president of the Charter Commission, feels that going out into the various suburban and Detroit areas will bring valuable input from local citizens.

"We have arranged a total of 11 community meetings to be held by host commissioners in different localities to encourage maximum participation throughout the county," Ward said.

"As a public body, our primary purpose is to incorporate into the new Charter as much information and guidance as possible from the people who will be governed by the new Charter."

"We hope to be able to draft a charter that will accurately reflect the peoples' collective will and one that will win approval when submitted to the voters."

Lt. Gov. James Brickley will be featured speaker at the first scheduled meeting tonight. His speech is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and the public may attend the open meeting. However, their input will not be received until 7:30 p.m.

Commissioner Bart Berg of Canton, who will host the meeting, represents the 27th District, which comprises the townships of Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Van Buren and Sumpter, and the cities of Wayne, Westland, Belleville and Plymouth.

The Charter Commission was authorized after voters approved the ballot proposal in the Aug. 5 (1980) primary which called for the drafting of a new Wayne County Charter.

The Commission must submit their completed draft to the Attorney General no later than June 16, 1981. It will then be placed on the ballot for voter approval.

All the community meetings are regular Thursday evening sessions which will start at 6 p.m. The Commission will conduct its regular business each week from 6 to 7:30 p.m., at which time the public will be invited to give input. Since all meetings are open to the public, anyone can sit in from 6 to 7:30 p.m. also.

But Commissioners stressed that the public would only be able to give their input after 7:30 p.m. at each meeting.

Man of the hour

With his mother standing at his side, Joseph Subic Jr. (above) meets with the throng of people who turned out at Metropolitan Airport in Romulus to welcome him home. Subic, who spent 44 days as a hostage in Iran, told the crowds of well-wishers "that he was happy to be freed, and happy to be home and on American soil again."

Joining in the celebration of freedom was a delegation from Romulus including Mayor William Oakley (center of photo below) and Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks (at right of Mayor Oakley). Among other national, state and area officials who greeted the freed hostage were Sen. Donald Reagle of Michigan and Lt. Gov. James Brickley. On Monday, Michigan's second freed hostage, Charles Jones, arrived in town. Subic and Jones, along with their families, were scheduled to be honored in Detroit at a "Celebration of Freedom" on Tuesday at Cobo Hall.

Huron Twp. supervisor joins fight against state tax hike

One of the area's first elected officials to protest the huge increase in real property assessments passed on recently by Wayne County is urging his legislators to take action to freeze those assessments at the 1980 level.

Huron Township Sup. Richard F. Sullivan expressed his concerns in letters to Sen. James De Sana and Rep. Edward Mahalak. The supervisor asked that concerned township residents do the same.

"We are now undergoing a period of economic depression," declared Sullivan. "People are being laid off their jobs in great numbers or are being asked to take a cut in wages. Added to all of this are increased costs for utilities and the impending still higher cost of gasoline now that the President Reagan has decontrolled that fuel."

Also, he cited news that food will go up 12 percent in the next year, plus anticipated higher taxes.

"Low-income residents, primarily oursenior citizens, will be $240 in the red even after getting back their maximum refund of $1,200 because of increased taxes," explained Sullivan.

In his letters to De Sana and Mahalak, the supervisor also requested that application of Public Act 114 be aborted. This year for the first time the new state act authorizes implementation of separate equalization factors for each class of property.

Application of the factors, which are computed by the county Bureau of Taxation, theoretically brings real property assessments up to one-half of their current market value as required by state law.

But, the rising price of real estate over the last three years, the period on which the equalization factors are based, resulted in a high factor for real property. Assessments in some communities will rise from 20 to 50 percent.

In Huron, taxes will rise by 20 percent, the same increase as the residential equalization factor, which went from 1.19 last year to 1.4344 this year.

Sullivan said he has had several meetings with the county Bureau of Taxation and the Michigan State Tax Commission in an effort to decrease the residential equalization factor.

He urged township residents to write to: Sen. James De Sana, 1801 14th St., Wyandotte, Mich. 48192 or Room 120, Michigan State Capital, Lansing, Mich. 48909, and to Rep. Edward Mahalak, 9404 Chamberlain Ave., Romulus, Mich. 48174 or Room 13, Michigan State Capital, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

"Property owners cannot live with these outrageous increases in taxes," said Sullivan. "Time is important! Send your letters and postcards at once. Be assured each member of your township board is doing everything in their power to help."

Judge Baum's decision confusing

County sheriff's patrol to stay...or will they?

Confusion reigned supreme following a Wayne County Circuit Court judge's ruling Saturday night on whether Sheriff William Lucas' patrol and investigation unit will remain intact.

Part of the unit, which is made up of 267 deputies, provides police protection to the city of Romulus under a contract with the county.

In his ruling, Judge Victor J. Baum denied injunctions against layoffs of the P & I deputies sought by Local 502 of the National Union of Police Officers and Local 1917 of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

However, Baum also ruled that the county must continue police service until May 19, 1981 to Romulus at the level stipulated in the contract.

When the county Board of Commissioners approved this year's county budget, it lopped off funds to pay for the sheriff's P & I unit.

Lucas, in a separate suit, is suing the county claiming that the $8.3 million cut from his budget prevents him from providing constitutionally mandated police duties to out-county communities.

Baum said his ruling would permit Lucas to maintain that all 267 deputies in the P & I unit are needed to continue police protection to Romulus.

However, the judge said the Board of Commissioners could still dismantle the unit under his ruling if it believes contractual service to Romulus can be provided by personnel shifted by the sheriff from other divisions in his 791-man department.

Board of Commissioners Chairman Samuel A. Turner had a different interpretation of Baum's lengthy 2½-hour decision. He said the judge's ruling to not grant injunctions requested by the police unions meant that the sheriff must work within his allotted budget.

Turner pointed out that the P & I unit is not budgeted after Feb. 1 (last Sunday), but that he expected the board to probably appropriate funds to continue payment of the 25 to 28 police officers who service Romulus.

In addition to several attorneys present when Baum delivered his opinion, confusion was evident to listeners of area telecasts. Some heard one version on one station and almost the opposite on another.

Even Wayne County Attorney W. James Quigley found it difficult to interpret Baum's ruling and said he would wait until mid-afternoon to give his opinion before making any conclusions.

The three and a half months left for sheriff's police protection for Romulus gives it little time to create its own department, should that be the alternative followed.

Booze cut off, Romulus man accused of assault

A Romulus man incensed over being cut off from further drinking by a bar maid came back with a shotgun, held her hostage, shot a sheriff's deputy and assaulted the women while 10 police cars surrounded a local bar.

Arrested was Francis D. Murray, 24, of Romulus. The six-count warrant charges him with assault with intent to murder, felonious assault, criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, and possession of a firearm in commission of a felony on each charge.

According to Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. Det. Timothy Glaab, Murray had been drinking at the City Lounge, Wayne and Ecorse roads, Thursday night and was shut off from further drinks.

The detective said he then went across the street to Angie's Bar and began drinking again.

At this point, he began falling asleep and was cut off drinks by Mrs. Renee Parrinello, 20, the bar maid, said Glaab. Murray then went to his home behind City Lounge and got his shotgun, not bothering to open the case, but slitting it open with a knife in his haste to get the weapon, said the detective.

After loading the gun, Murray's wife told police he put extra shells into his coat pocket and left. Glaab said the management at Angie's saw him coming and alerted customers to lay low. When Murray entered the bar, he let everyone leave who wanted to, but held the bar maid hostage.

The bar's management pressed the silent alarm to summon police. First on the scene was Officer Russell Dickson. One of two men who ran from the bar, Gerald Gabry, told Dickson that an armed man was holding the bar maid hostage.

The officer got a shotgun from his car and approached the bar. As he opened the outer door, he could see Murray through the second door which was ajar, said Glaab. Both men fired off two shots almost simultaneously and Dickson was struck with buckshot pellets in the right hand, right leg, chin and side. The officer's shots hit the grip on Murray's gun, said the detective.

Although the shots were fired at a distance of about six feet, Glaab explained that the pellets from Murray's shotgun glanced off a brick wall before striking Dickson. The officer was treated at Wayne County General Hospital and released.

Glaab said Murray then retreated into the bar still holding the bar maid hostage. By this time, about 10 police cars had converged on the scene and had Angie's surrounded. The gunman at this point was threatening her and other persons still in the bar, the detective said.

After going behind the counter, Murray allegedly assaulted his victim, unmindful of the ring of police officers outside, said Glaab. During the ordeal, police were in contact with Murray through a window left open by one of the fleeing customers, the detective explained.

After requesting and getting a walkie-talkie, Murray told officers he would surrender only to Officer John Gamrat, whom he said he knew. Although off duty, Gamrat was located and brought to the scene where he succeeded in getting Murray to surrender.

Murray was arraigned Friday in 34th District Court, Romulus, before Judge James B. Stone. After failing to post $50,000 bond, he was lodged in the Wayne County Jail. Examination on the six charges is set for Feb. 11 in the 34th District Court, Glaab said.

Police said Murray is currently unemployed and has a history of drinking problems.

Fire guts trailer office

Fire of unknown origin gutted the trailer office of the City Sand and Landfill shortly after 3 p.m. Friday, according to Sumpter Township Fire Dept. Lt. Joe Januscyk.

Although several persons were in the office when the blaze broke out, all escaped without injury, he said. Januscyk said the Sumpter Township Fire Department extinguished the fire in time to save all records of the landfill firm. He said that arson has been ruled out.

In Brief

Ex-Inkster mayor is dead

Funeral services for Leonard Dakiewicz, former Mayor of Inkster and a longtime public servant in that community, were held yesterday at the Santieu Funeral Home in Garden City.

Dakiewicz, 62, was elected to three successive terms as the Village of Inkster councilman, then served as mayor when John P. Wagner resigned.

In August of 1971, the then former Mayor Dakiewicz was appointed to serve on the Housing Commission as well as many other area commissions.

Hardesty trial begins

Billy Hardesty, 23, of Van Buren Township, accused slayer of his parents and three men, went on trial Monday in Washtenaw County Circuit Court before Judge Ross Campbell.

He is charged with going on a shooting spree in October of 1978 in Van Buren and Ypsilanti. Following a shootout with police at his parents' home early the next morning, he was wounded and surrendered.

Hardesty has been confined to the state center for Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti while tests were made to determine his competency to stand trial.

Despite protests from residents

Landfill gets permit renewal

Controversy over renewal of a sand removal permit for Wayne Disposal in Van Buren Township came to an end last Tuesday, at least temporarily.

Notwithstanding the turnout of some 125 township residents, mostly from Quirk Subdivision just east of the landfill, the township board unanimously voted to renew the permit for one year.

But, repeated protests and sizeable attendance at recent board meetings by opponents of the landfill did accomplish two objectives; the township board agreed to restrict landfill expansion to within one-half mile of Beck Road and to name a five-member commission to study operations of landfills.

The group will observe area landfills and pursue efforts to change state

...it would cost township
$239,000 to take trash elsewhere.

legislation to limit landfill expansion and to ensure that stricter controls are placed on landfill operations.

Whether the township legally can now limit expansion of Wayne Disposal to a half mile is doubtful. State law now permits landfills to come within 300 feet of a residential area.

But, Treasurer Tom Welty said that Wayne Disposal does not expect to get to within a half mile of Beck Road for the next four to five years. Don Vilnius, the landfill's general manager, told the township board and audience Tuesday that Wayne Disposal would not be within 1,300 feet of Beck Road for 15 years.

Although several members of the audience expressed criticism of the landfill and implied coddling by the township board of the landfill's owner, the board was influenced by what would happen to free dumping by the township and residents if the sand removal permit was denied.

Costs given the previous week by Ron Traskos, township auditor, revealed that it would cost Van Buren an estimated $239,000 yearly to take garbage and trash to other nearby landfills. If garbage and trash pickup service were contracted to an outside source, the cost would rise to $400,000 or more annually, Traskos reported.

Driven home repeatedly by the township board to the audience was the fact that the state Dept. of Natural Resources licenses landfills and that the community in which they are located has no authority or control over that license.

According to the DNR, denial of the sand removal permit by the township would not stop operation or expansion of Wayne Disposal.

Sup. Cullin explained that the landfill could stockpile sand and move it around the landfill to make space for material dumped there and could eventually get state permission to have the sand removal permit restored.

During the meeting last week, Vilnius denied that the landfill accepted any hazardous wastes, claiming Wayne Disposal is better regulated than any landfill in Michigan.

Petitions signed by more than 100 township residents evidently fell on deaf ears. Signers protested living conditions near the landfill and urged more professional landfill inspections by the county and state.

Similar protests last year were answered by county and state agencies. After making several inspections and tests, both county and state gave Wayne Disposal a clean bill of health.

In one area, that of excessive flies, tests will be repeated this year during hot summer months in the height of the fly season. But, tests made last year indicated that a nearby house action site was responsible for the large number of flies in the area, according to the Wayne County Health Dept.

Responding to questions and protests from the audience, Trustee Tim Toohy reminded them that the township had little authority to control Wayne Disposal and that the state "will do everything in its power" to keep it open for business.

Vocational Ed. Week

Breaking out in a smile, Romulus' Ann David (above) is preparing to focus her thoughts and future on a career in photography. It's just one of many careers and vocations that will be discussed during Feb. 9-13, which is set aside for Romulus High's Vocational Educational Week.

Vocational Education week gets underway at Romulus High

Some 200,000 auto workers know the realities of "job security". And the vocations of today may not necessarily secure the jobs of tomorrow.

What can one do to better prepare him or herself for future jobs? This is one of the questions that the Romulus High School's "Vocational Education Week" will tackle, according to school officials.

Many scheduled events are planned for Vocational Education Week, February 9-13, at Romulus High School. The Vocational Education "Road Show" will be touring these elementary schools on the following days and times: Hale Creek Elementary — February 9 at 10:15 a.m.; Barth Elementary — February 10 at 9 to 10 a.m. for the 4th - 6th grades and 10:45 to 11:15 a.m. for grades K - 3; Wick Elementary — February 11 at 9:45 a.m.; Hayti Elementary — February 12 at 10:30 a.m., K - 3 and 10:45 to 11:15 a.m. 4th - 6th grades.

Ken Bird, Josephine Pigg, Roger Burckoff, Ann David, Jackie Jernigan, Tim Lowe, and Bonnie Wynn are the talented students who are working hard to make the Vocational Education Road Show a success.

Other scheduled events are: Monday, February 9, to kick off Vocational Education Week, an exquisite dinner prepared by our Commercial Foods Program for the school board members, administrators, counselors, vocational education teaching staff, and those students participating in Vocational Education Week.

Tuesday, February 10, Community Day, look for Health Occupations students to administer a free blood pressure check at the following locations — Bilmar's Supermarket, Security Bank and Romulus City Hall.

Thursday, February 12, Senior Citizen's Day, a planned day of relaxation and a bit of excitement for our senior citizens.

The Romulus Community Schools' CETA-funded ESP Program, (ENcouraging Successful Placement for Youth), has also expanded to include the Taylor School District in an effort to further meet the needs of youth unemployment.

This joint venture is called the Mid-Wayne Consortium.

The ESP Program is designed to service youth 16-21 (in-school and out-of-school) in Romulus and Taylor communities by assisting in bridging the Employer-Employee knowledge gap and assist youth in obtaining and retaining employment through the following services: Vocational Counseling, Occupational Information, Employability Skills, Literacy Training, and Full and Part Time Placement.

E. L. Sheffield, Director of Career and Vocational Education, Romulus Community Schools, and Dr. Paul Lammers, Director of Career and Vocational Education, Taylor School District, along with their staffs have worked diligently to make this collaboration a success.

The additional funds needed to form the Mid-Wayne Consortium were provided through Wayne CETA under Title IV, Transition Services. The funding period is from October 1, 1980 through August 31, 1981.

One of the primary linkages of the consortium is the shared use of the Job Developer. The Job Developer, Ms. Jeffra Nicholson, will work two days per week in Romulus and two days per week in Taylor, while one day will be utilized as a coordinating day.

It will be Ms. Nicholson's responsibility to go into the business community and develop contacts for employment, and to acquaint the community with the placement program.

During the past five years, each school district has played a primary role in attempting to curtail youth unemployment through their own Placement Offices, but combined, the results can be greater, school officials believe.

They're junior achievers

Area high school students who participate in Junior Achievement recently were guests of the Kelsey-Hayes Co. of Romulus at the luncheon meeting of the Economic Club of Detroit. Students met and talked to Percy Qoboza, guest speaker, who is editor-in-residence of the Washington Star and currently on leave from the South Africa Johannesburg

Romulus man arraigned

Sheriffs nab robbery suspect

One of three men nabbed last Wednesday in a Westland residence is expected to be charged with the armed robbery of a mobile home earlier that same day at the Royal Village Trailer Park, Romulus.

One of the three men was identified in a police line-up by the couple who were robbed, said Det. Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept.

Investigation by Lindberg revealed that two armed men entered the mobile home shortly before 5 p.m. and took jewelry, silverware and money. A neighbor saw the two men get into a white Ford automobile driven by a third man and flee.

He gave the license number to police and a subsequent check showed it to be registered to Sumpter Township. However, Lindberg said he was told the person had moved to Van Buren Township.

There, the owner of the car told police she had loaned the vehicle to her son who lived in Westland.

Arriving there, Lindberg said several men were seen walking around inside. However, the woman who admitted them inside said no one else was at home.

But, police found one man hiding in the bathroom, another hiding in a bedroom and one was nabbed running out the back door. After obtaining a search warrant, Lindberg said coats matching the description of those worn by the two armed robbers and a gun were found in the Westland home.

The detective said all three men recently were released from Jackson Prison and are either assigned on leave from a half-way house.

Cook is arraigned on murder charge

Gregory T. Cook, 27, of Van Buren Township, last Wednesday was charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death of a 27-year-old friend from Trenton.

Cook was lodged in Wayne County Jail and ordered held without bond after his arraignment in 34th District Court in Romulus before Judge James B. Stone.

According to Det. Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept., Cook shot John Lucchese on the previous Monday night while the two men were drinking at the accused's apartment on Village Green in Van Buren.

Cook also was charged with using a firearm in the commission of a felony, Lindberg said.

The detective said both men worked for the same company as security guards, but in different areas.

Lindberg said Cook told him he shot his friend because he (Cook) was dying with an incurable kidney disease and that it was not fair for his friend to continue living.

Cook will appear for a preliminary examination at 9 a.m. Wednesday (today) before Judge Stone in 34th District Court.

Welcome home, Subic

A bit of history

Warning that if the city pays an old legal fee that accumulated during a suit between ex-Romulus Mayor Terry Troutt and James Stewart, Stewart warned council last Tuesday night that the city may incur yet another suit — one he would file if they approve the payment. Stewart (at far left, standing at the microphone) made a surprise visit to Council to discuss a bit of Romulus political history that few in these parts remember.

'...or else I'll sue'

Stewart warns not to pay Troutt's old legal bill

Former Romulus Mayor James Stewart appeared at last week's city council session to urge that the city not pay an old legal bill for his immediate predecessor in the mayor's office, Terry Troutt. Council took no action on the matter.

Stewart, who now lives in northern Michigan, told council he happened to be in the city and decided to explain the history behind and the ramifications of the old suit. He also warned, "I will see if council pays that bill."

Although Stewart said it was publicly known that Troutt accused him, when he was a councilman, of not paying his city taxes, the ex-mayor charged Troutt and his colleagues drummed up the charges.

At that time, Troutt was running for mayor against incumbent Hyle J. Carmichael, he said.

According to Stewart, Troutt had his "friends" come to council to read the charges after he (Stewart) refused to support him in his bid for the mayor's seat.

He told council that he had known both Troutt and Carmichael for years and wanted to remain neutral in the mayor's race.

"After being elected mayor, Troutt and his 'four yes votes on council' got a motion passed to pay for legal fees to defend him against his lawsuit," Stewart said.

Although he submitted his own legal bills to the city for payment too, Stewart said, they were returned to him unpaid with no action taken by council. Stewart said he then paid his own legal bills, got tired of the suit and forgot about it. He remarked to council that over the years, even under Troutt, the bills for Troutt have remained unpaid. Now, he said, he had read in the local newspaper that the current city council was being urged by the city attorney to pay a compromise settlement of $1,200 to settle the long outstanding legal bill for Troutt.

Councilman Ed Rush reminded Stewart that a previous city council had okayed the payment of Troutt's legal fees.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry said he recalled the original resolution back in June of 1975. However, although council at that time approved action to hire an attorney for Troutt and William Munger, then city attorney, Raspberry maintained nothing was said about who was to be hired as legal counsel, no mention was made of a legal retainer and no terms were set down.

At the conclusion of his comments, council, Stewart said, "I had said if the city pays Troutt's bill, I would sue the city. The offer still stands."

What's your name?

BY JOYCE HAGELTHORN

"Please Grandma, will you tell me your name?" my grandson looked up at me, huge eyes questioning, mouth wide open.

"My name is Joyce," I told him. "Huh-uh," his mouth quirked into a grin. "Your name is grandma."

"Oh, no, Mike," his big sister cut in. "Grandma's real name is 'Mom'. Right, Grandma?"

"Oh, sure, right," I answered, tucking Joyce into the background.

"Actually you have a lot of names, Mom," my youngest pointed out.

"Oh sure," I told her. "Like 'hey-you', 'Withc' and others too spicy to talk about."

"I think Grandma's the best," my diplomat granddaughter said, smiling at me and squeezing my hand.

"That's right, Darcy," I said absently because, you see, I was thinking about it. Just who am I?

As I drew on my coat and walked out the door I told myself, "I'm Joyce. I'm Joyce Sharp Hagelthorn . . . ME."

That is when I tripped on the bottom step and went flat into a snow bank.

The door flew open and the family poured out.

"Mom, how can you be so clumsy? My God!"

"Dumbell, how many times have I told you to watch where you are going?" and my husband pulled me out of the snow and began beating off the white stuff.

"Hey you," one of my kids shouted from the window, "didn't you know it's slippery out there?"

"Grandma, did you get hurted? I'll pray for you if you did, grandma," and wrapping his arms around me he put his head against the snowy coat. "I love you Grandma."

"Me, too, Grandma," Darcy agreed as she, too, wrapped her arms around me.

That settles who I am. I like the name Grandma best of all. That will probably last until they get older, but while it's so delightful I'm going to revel in it. Right? Right, Grandma!

Ask Carol Premo

Daughter's acting strangely

DEAR CAROL,

This will not be a very easy letter to write but I must start somewhere. I know you won't understand this problem unless I spell it out in detail. It has to do with my 19-year-old daughter. And I am very concerned for her well being. It all started about six months ago and it seems like it was quite gradual.

She started eating tons of food, not just at meals, but all day long. She would eat until she would get sick. Really sick. Naturally she put on a lot of weight.

Well, that seems serious enough but there is a lot more.

She used to be very fussy about her appearance, always clean, used a little makeup, very neat. Now she is a slob. She never washes, she is messy.

And she puts lots of makeup over old makeup and doesn't seem to mind. Several times she has really given me a start, she wakes up at about 4 a.m. and walks around the house in the dark, she stands in the middle of the dining room, doesn't talk, just stands there.

When I ask if there is something I can do or if anything is wrong, she just says no and goes to bed. And then, sleeps all day. She has totally turned around her day and night.

Needless to add, she just stopped going to work. She was a waitress, not a great job, but she was doing fine. One day she just stopped going to work. I suppose they fired her but I don't know for sure. Now she is home all the time. She doesn't do anything.

She sleeps, eats and sits, and nothing else. My husband and I can not afford for this to go on forever. The economy is bad enough without a 19 year old not working.

She is also acting weird.

I honestly think she is going crazy or something like that. I tried to ignore it all at first and prayed it would go away. It just seems to be getting worse. I really do not know what to do. I think at times it is my fault her life is so bad, but I can't think of anything I have done. We don't have a lot of money, but we do have some saved and can afford help. Where do we go? I do not want to lose her and don't think we have a lot of time left. We really need some advice.

Concerned and Loving Mother

Dear Mother,

What you describe could be the beginning of a serious mental disorder. Your daughter should be seen by a psychiatrist. A psychiatrist is a medical doctor and should be seen as opposed to other types of therapists. If a regimen of chemotherapy (medication) and/or physical treatment is required (and that is a probability) she will need a medical doctor.

This should be done as soon as possible, and you can find a psychiatrist nearest you by calling Community Information Services, at 833-3430.

DEAR CAROL,

Just a word of thanks. I did what you said and it worked. I don't want to mention what because I don't want my neighbors to know, but thanks anyway.

M.J.

Dear M.J.

Thanks for the feedback. It helps!

Dr. Levis is picked for national panel

An associate superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, Dr. Rae M. Levis, has been named to the 21-member National Advisory Council on Vocational Education. The appointment was formalized by President Jimmy Carter just before he left office.

The council is charged with advising the President, Congress, the Department of Education and the U.S. Office of Education on the operation and administration of vocational education programs and recommending changes.

A further charge is to identify the vocational education, employment and training needs of the country and to "assess the extent to which vocational education, employment training, vocational rehabilitation, special education and other programs . . . represent a consistent, integrated, and coordinated approach to meeting such needs."

The council is authorized to conduct independent investigations and to hold any hearings it deems necessary. membership of the council includes representatives of the public, private and public education, higher education, business and organized labor.

Dr. Levis, primary responsibility for state and federal programs processed through the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Views On Dental Health

By PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S.

EARLY TOOTH OVERCROWDING

When should crooked teeth be straightened? As soon as they're detected! The old adage about an ounce of protection is especially true in orthodontics, where crooked teeth can be prevented by early treatment.

Prompt treatment is recommended when teeth are overcrowded. Some baby teeth may be removed ahead of their normal shedding time to allow nature to do a certain amount of tooth straightening. Known as interceptive orthodontics, it involves a one-by-one extraction in a well-planned sequence to make room for a better bite.

Diagnosed at a sufficiently early age, an unusual trend can often be stopped in its tracks - and its effects completely erased. To ensure early detection, a child should have a checkup by the family dentist at intervals of about six months, beginning at 2½ to 3 years of age. Overcrowded and crooked teeth are most likely to make their entrance with the arrival of the four permanent incisors and the four permanent molars at around age six.

HOW CAN DEATH BE EXPLAINED TO A CHILD?

In the book Explaining Death To Children, the editor, Dr. Earl A. Grollman states: "In explaining death to children, the parent may proceed from two areas of concern . . . the interpretative where religious concepts are explained . . . and the factual area."

Religious concepts would include those that describe the qualities of God as understood in the religion practiced in your family. These should be of a positive nature highlighting the love of God for His children and everyone in the family.

The factual area would include those concepts which explain that death means that life stops; the person will not and cannot return to life, and the body will be buried.

The child will follow your example more than the words you use to explain the post-death procedures. But the primary need of the child is to be listened to and to have the questions answered briefly and with truth and love.

This is a subject you may wish to discuss at length with your minister and funeral director. Both of us will be glad to help.

4. Open Floor Discussion

Mrs. Drake questioned Item F under New Business on the agenda. Mr. Matt Krakowiak questioned the possibility of water on Sherwood Road. Mr. Dan Welch asked who is doing the grant writing for water, also asked the status of monies on Phase III and Phase IV.

Mrs. Pauline Quinley questioned Item H under New Business on the agenda. Mrs. Georgia Bradford asked if there was any program in the Township for apprentice carpenters.

Mrs. Rose Cooper questioned work to be done on her home through the Re-Hab. Program.

Mr. Elmo Jones discussed the meeting of the Wayne County Planning and Advisory Comm. Meeting to be held Wednesday, January 28, 1981. Floor discussion closed.

5. Minutes

A. Motion by Huziak, supported by Morgan, to approve the Public Hearing Meeting Minutes of January 13, 1981 as published. Motion carried unanimously.

B. Motion by Reaume, supported by Morgan, to approve the Regular Board Meeting Minutes of January 13, 1981 as published. Motion carried unanimously.

C. Motion by Reaume, supported by Banotai, to approve Special Board Meeting Minutes of January 14, 1981 as published. Motion carried unanimously.

6. Treasurer's Report — Duey

Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume, to accept Treasurer's Report as read. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Duey, supported by Morgan, to approve the investment, by the Treasurer, of $100,000 in a Certificate of Deposit at Standard Federal Savings when the money is available. Motion carried unanimously.

7. Supervisor's Report — Reeves.

Read communication from Commissioner Joyner expressing his opinion against another dump in Sumpter Township. He is in total agreement with Supervisor Reeves and the Township Board. Received a communication from the March of Dimes 1981 Campaign. Mother's March designated for March 1 thru March 8 and the Walk America for April 25. Also designating April as March of Dimes Birth Defects Month.

Motion by Huziak, supported by Reaume, Township to adopt Proclamation to designate month of April as March of Dimes Birth Defect Month. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Huziak, supported by Banotai, to appoint Supervisor Reeves to the P.C.H.A. Replacing former Supervisor Demski. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Banotai, to appoint Mrs. Pauline Quinley as Alternate to the P.C.H.A. from Sumpter Township. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Huziak, supported by Bevins, to support Van Buren's Resolution on Tax Equalization. Motion carried unanimously.

Supervisor sent letters to Supervisor of Redford and Mayor of Detroit expressing relief and gratitude to the two men from their respective areas that were held hostage for 444 days. Mr. Subic from Redford Township and Mr. Jones from the City of Detroit. Also read a letter from Richard Anderson asking the Township Board to rescind his letter of resignation.

Motion by Huziak, supported by Reaume, to leave the resignation of Mr. Anderson stand as is. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume, to accept Supervisor's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

8. Attorney's Report — Witthoff.

Reported on the status of MJW Case. Will be going into court on February 5, 1981. MJW's activity on the property has been stopped. After a discussion with the Attorney, Supervisor Reeves and Engineer Wilhelm, they were given assurance that there will be no more working at the site until the trial date and the court has decided the issue. Reported on the Pioneer Apartment Lease. Mr. Blake could not make the meeting that had been scheduled so he is trying to get another date set.

Attorney Witthoff advised the Board that he has sent a letter to the Governor withdrawing the Boards request for removing of Clarence Russell as Treasurer of Sumpter Township, due to his resignation.

He has contacted City Sand & Landfill with regard to a meeting. Are willing to meet February 12, 1981 but not with a full Board. Would like to have Reeves, Wilhelm and Witthoff present along with Soave, Handyside and Ufer from City Sand. Trustee Morgan did not think there should be any meeting that would exclude any Board Member. This meeting would only be for discussion. A Public Hearing would have to be held before any action could be taken.

Motion by Bevins, supported by Morgan, that Morgan, Reeves and Banotai be appointed as a committee to meet for a preliminary hearing with City Sand & Landfill and bring back their findings to the Board. Roll Call Vote: Reaume - naye. Morgan - aye. Banotai - aye. Reeves - aye. Duey - naye. Huziak - aye. Bevins - aye. Motion carried.

Motion by Morgan, supported by Reaume, to accept Attorney's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

*11. New Business.

A. Helen Wainio of Congressman Ford's Office presented the Township Board with a Flag that was flown over the U.S. Capitol Building under the name of Sumpter Township. Congressman Ford regretted that he could not attend the meeting personally but the situation in Washington demanded that he be there.

9. Engineer's Report — Wilhelm.

Engineer Wilhelm met with Tom Handyside from City Sand and Landfill regarding a complaint by DNR of odor from the old site. A part of the Landfill had cracked from the top down. A new base was put in and covered up and it has been taken care of.

Motion by Banotai, supported by Morgan, to accept Engineer's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

10. Old Business.

P.A. 114, a promise broken to taxpayers

On the surface it would appear that the people in the State Capital didn't get the message. The day after "Tisch" was defeated last November, Gov. Milliken was contemplating a tax increase. He argued that the decline of revenues due to mass auto layoffs and lower car sales left the state coffers with huge holes.

The governor has, since then, reviewed his fiscal position and is looking elsewhere for monies to keep this state's government afloat.

Taxes, especially new ones, have a "seasickness" effect on people, even in good times. And we need not again state that these are not good times.

One only has to glance over to our "Letters Column" to read that taxpayers (and their ranks in Michigan are depleting at an astounding rate) are disgusted with paying more and more of their hard-earned money and getting little in return.

Now comes Public Act 114. It is a tax that shifts more of the burden of financing government on the people, who are trying to survive during a time of inflation, depression, and have little to look forward to. The argument presented in PA 114's defense is that it supposedly assesses all property in the state equally and fairly.

Let us accept that as a fact, that it indeed does "assess all property in the state equally and fairly." But, according to the charts made available to us, the effect of this law on your 1981 taxes in the following communities is: Canton - increase with PA 114 is 18.88 percent; increase without PA 114 is 14.00 percent; Inkster - 18.88 percent as opposed to 12.12; in Romulus - 19.06 as opposed to 9.51; in Wayne 31.27 as opposed to 15.92; in Westland - 25.96 as opposed to 16.09; in Sumpter - 25.63 as opposed to 12.70 and in Van Buren Township - 31.47 as opposed to 14.50 percent.

The convoys of property owners who have been attending meetings to hear what their lawmakers have to say about PA 114 have made it clear that if this act goes into effect a promise has been broken.

The citizens may lose this battle.

But as we see it, with Tisch to lead them the next time around, taxpayers will probably win the war.

We strongly believe that PA 114 should be killed immediately. Let it read: R.I.P.

On mental health and foster home programs

Statements about Michigan's mental health programs which are inaccurate or misleading have recently appeared in several newspaper reader-opinion columns.

Michigan is encountering hard times. Particularly hard hit are the patients in mental hospitals, their families and friends, and the dedicated staff that serves them. The last thing that they need are polarizing untruths.

The facts are quite simple and straightforward. First, there is the matter of the budgets for the Department of Mental Health, proposed by the Governor and enacted by the legislature. These budgets are a clear reflection of executive and legislative priorities.

For the 1979-80 fiscal year the legislature appropriated $494 million for mental health services. Economic conditions required reductions during the year to $470 million, and $7 million was transferred to the Department of Social Services for nursing home care for mentally retarded persons. This reduced Department expenditures to approximately $463 million.

When it appeared that fiscal year '81 would be no worse than fiscal year '80, the Governor recommended a budget for the Department of Mental Health of $545 million. When general revenues fell drastically, he reduced his request by $66 million to $479 million. The legislature accepted and enacted that target.

However, the current year budget of $479 million includes: $10.8 million for unemployment benefits and worker compensation, budget items which last year were not in the mental health appropriation; $30 million for mandatory pay increases, negotiated by public employee unions; and $20 million for full year continuation of community programs begun part way through last year. The budget also has to cover a general inflation factor of about 10 percent.

This year's $479 million appropriation is at least $60 million short of funding necessary for continuation of the 1979-80 level of mental health services.

Contrary to repetitiously inaccurate reports there has been no dramatic increase in bureaucrats during my administration.

The day I walked into the office in August, 1979, there were 613 employees on the central, regional, field payroll working throughout the state, not just in Lansing, responsible for a range of necessary functions, including rights protection, training, data collection, money collection, and quality control.

Letters to the Editor

Salute to Mrs. Klein

EDITOR — This is a letter about someone who's done something positive for mankind; someone who's been working steadily and tirelessly for Romulus area citizens since the early sixties. She's worked with her church and others to help the serving of needy in our area for years before that.

I witnessed Florence Klein's work a couple of months ago. With the cooperation of church pastors, people in need of emergency help were given food and clothing and those who she found could "help themselves" she directed to the right sources. She has lately managed to do all of this singlehandedly and this year did not even have time to ask for the help needed to fill the community's needs. Since then, I have learned of her many awards from church and community, including the "Outstanding Young Woman of Romulus" award from the Jaycees' auxiliary. The awards are well-deserved. She manages the store without pay, involving not only churches but the schools and organizations like the General Motors Men's Club.

Typical of citizens she has helped are independent business people who have large families and therefore an even bigger struggle with inflation than most of us. Recipients are grateful for what they get because they know the help is from people who care; not an impersonal agency.

Sometimes I wonder how long Mrs. Klein can continue to benefit customers and the needy in the small space she has to store clothes in ... and much of the donation money has to pay the store space rent. A friend and I are urging the mayor to help her find a rent-free space for the Shop.

Mrs. Klein needs volunteer help desperately; also food and assistance with food drives. Contributions are tax-deductible. Mrs. Klein needs the help of churches and schools. If people can't donate money or time, a call or letter to the mayor and city council could do the trick to help a citizen who's been helping us and our community for these many years ...

They're "Home at Last!"

EDITOR — As I sat before the TV set last Sunday and watched the 52 hostages returning home, I had many mixed feelings (as well as tears) as, I am sure, most Americans were having at the same time.

But, as one TV commentator exclaimed with evident relief: "They're home at last!" I was compelled to add some thoughts of my own into this little poem "HOME AT LAST", which you might find interesting enough to put into your newspaper, if it seems at all pertinent at this time.

HOME AT LAST!

Home at last! The hostages are free!
What joy we feel, and sigh in deep relief.
But many ask why this thing had to be?
Four hundred forty-four dark days of grief
In outlaw hands (It was an outlaw action)
Before negotiators cleared the way
To final freedom. What was your reaction
To all the strategy? The long delay?
Frustrations every time a new plan died?
Has this, our Country, lost its past-time glory?
No longer carries a "big stick"? One cried,
"Why did you take so long"? We say, "So sorry"
So now the fifty two are home at last.
Rejoice! All people. But hide not the past!

The Other Side of the Meridian

What is our job?

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

Over the past three decades I have learned to become very suspicious of those outside our clique who say: "You're doing a fine job."

For newspaper people, like cops, are a very suspicious breed.

Moreover, I've often wondered "What is our job?" Is it to report, inform, investigate — all of these — and much more, or is it to fill space that the advertising people have failed to sell?

And, if I, as well as many of my colleagues, question the very nature of our business, then how can someone from the outside come in and grade our performance?

These thoughts crossed my mind as I listened to members of the Romulus City Council last week. Three members of that body, apparently disgruntled over this newspaper's coverage of that city, wanted us "to publish more positive things about the community."

And, we would agree here that there are probably many positive things going on in that community, and others, that we fail to "cover."

And, yet another member of council battered us for the "lack of objectivity" and "lack of fair play" displayed by our reporting.

It may be true that when we sit down before our typewriters and our VDTs, we sometimes favor one person against the other. Our minds have not yet been trained to eliminate the "biases" and prejudices infectious in all humans.

And, contrary to popular belief, newspaper people are human.

And, because we're human, we inevitably favor those who are readily accessible over those who refuse, for one reason or other, to open the lines of communication. It is a paradox of our business that those who have little to say before a story is written immediately have a lot to offer after the story is in print.

The most successful politicians I have ever known were those who, for one reason or other, knew how to "use" the press. Those who slam the doors and shout "No Comment!" usually come around the following day scowling at us and accusing us of "biased reporting."

Kusak returns home from Western Pacific deployment

Navy Gunner's Mate 1st Class Lawrence J. Kusak, whose wife, Nora, is the daughter of Burton and Mary Roberts of 29303 King Road, Romulus, has returned from a deployment to the Western Pacific.

He is a crewmember aboard the destroyer USS Hewitt, homeported in San Diego.

During the six-month cruise as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet, the ship was awarded the Battle Efficiency "E" Award for being the best ship in its squadron during 1979 and 1980. The Hewitt travelled more than 38,000 miles as it participated in training exercises with other 7th Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits were made in Hawaii, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Korea, and Hong Kong.

The Hewitt is 563 feet long and carries a crew of more than 250. Designed primarily for anti-submarine warfare (ASW), it is armed with two lightweight guns, ASW torpedoes and ASW rockets. The ship also carries a light helicopter for long-range detection and attack of submarines.

Kusak joined the Navy in October, 1968.

Navy Boiler Technician 3rd Class Daniel G. Lamance, son of Richard P. and Phylliss A. Lamance of 50305 Expressway, Belleville, has reported for duty aboard the training aircraft carrier, USS Lexington, located at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

A 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, he joined the Navy in August 1977.

Marine Cpl. Warren N. Olson, son of Charles and Shirley Olson of 975 Sumpter Road, Belleville, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with Marine Wing Communication Squadron 18, Marine Corps Air Station Futenma, on Okinawa.

A 1973 graduate of Alma High School, Alma, Mich., he joined the Marine Corps in March 1979.

Navy Seaman Michael R. Cluk, son of Richard S. and Janet M. Cluk of 47621 Hull Road, Belleville, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1980 graduate of Belleville High School, he joined the Navy in October 1980.

Lisa A. Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick D. Ross of 33510 Cherry Hill, Garden City, Mich., has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of airman first class.

Ross is an avionics instruments systems specialist at George Air Force Base, Calif.

His favorite Piston

It isn't often that one gets the opportunity to go down on the court and meet with a pro. But Belleville's Boyd Shearer, who's 14, got that chance recently to visit with Piston guard Larry Wright. Shearer, along with a few others, received that opportunity thanks to McDonald's Restaurant's "Meet Your Favorite Piston Contest." There will be one winner from each McDonald's in the greater metro area and on Sat., March 7, McDonald's will sponsor a "Back Pack Night" during which the first

4,000 youngsters' 14 and under, will be given complimentary back packs. Boyd represented the McDonald's at 10760 Belleville Road in Van Buren Township.

SUMPTER TOWNSHIP

EDUCATIONAL TAX SEMINARS

Two educational seminars will be held for the purpose of discussing property taxes in Sumpter Township. One evening session will be held on February 12, 1981, beginning at 7:00 P.M. and one afternoon session will be held on February 19, 1981, beginning at 2:00 p.m. at the Sumpter Township Hall. These are educational seminars for the purpose of understanding:

1. Your tax bill.
2. The tax factor and how it is established.
3. The millage rate and its effect on the total bill.
4. Explanation of the four factors this year rather than one factor under the Public Act 114.
5. Question and answer period.

These seminars are not for the purpose of tax appeals. Tax appeals will come before the Board of Review in March. It will however, give you a better understanding when you do appeal your tax assessment.

Eye on Leisure

By LOTIHAR KONIETZKO

Winter wonderland

Many of us moaned and groaned this week as temperatures dipped below the zero mark. Snow and cold temperatures, however, often produce some of nature's most beautiful scenes. Especially picturesque are some of the open stretches of land in northern Michigan, where nature is always beautiful, winter or summer.

What's That Sound?

By STEVE O'LEARY

America's answer to the Beatles?

CREEDENCE CLEARWATER REVIVAL
"The Royal Albert Hall Concert" (Fantasy)

Like a breath of fresh air, that's what this gem of an album is, and the ten years that have passed since it was recorded adds to the pleasure, rather than making it sound dated.

Creedence Clearwater Revival (or C.C.R., if you rather) was one of the truly great American rock bands of our time, and as this album shows, their stage work was every bit as exciting as their recorded output. To list the 14 songs included here would be like listing their greatest hits, and that's exactly what this is: C.C.R.'s greatest hits live. They're all here, from "Born On The Bayou" and "Green River" to "Fortunate Son" and "Down On The Corner."

Of course "Proud Mary" is here too, and this song has its own distinction to me: I don't remember ever being at a wedding reception that didn't play it as their token "rock" number. This version reminds me of how potent the song really is.

If you grew up with Creedence, as I did, then you'll no doubt want to check out "The Royal Albert Hall Concert."

If you didn't, then find out about "America's answer to the Beatles" (as they were called), and you'll see that raw, gritty rock'n'roll grew up in America as well as in England.

THE CLASH
"Sandinista!"
(Epic)

When the air had cleared in London following the punk revolution in 1976, two bands stood tall in the ruins surrounding them: The Sex Pistols and The Clash. At first glance they seemed much alike, but actually they differed as much as the proverbial night and day.

Whereas the Pistols proclaimed to be out to destroy rock'n'roll, it was the Clash who wanted to save it. Save it from what, you ask? Well, save it from formula-rock groups like Journey/Kansas/Styx (I still think they're all one group recording under different names...) who had grown stagnant, save it from over-priced albums that only the well-to-do could afford; in a nutshell, the Clash wanted to save rock'n'roll for the kids, and because they love it.

The band had demanded a low price tag be put on their last album, the two-LP set "London Calling," and it paid off for them; it was the single "Train In Vain" off of that album that broke the band through in America. This done, most bands would be content to keep still for awhile, releasing a rather predictable album or two, and putting away some money for their old age. Not the Clash, though. Not by a long shot.

"Sandinista!" the new record, is no less than a three-album set show casing 36 new Clashes. Some of it is reggae influenced, some of it is popish, and some of it is good 'ol rock'n'roll, but all of it is worth listening to. It even includes a remake of "Career Opportunities," featuring vocals by keyboardist Micky Gallagher's two young sons. Great fun.

The current U.K. single (titled, ironically enough), "Hitsville U.K.," features Ellen Foley as guest vocalist, and should stand a good chance even on America's rather stuck-up airwaves. "Police On My Back" is already garnishing considerable airplay on Detroit's FM stations, and that's really a relief considering the drive they usually serve up.

While most single albums list at $9.98 or so, "Sandinista!" has a list price of only $14.98, and can be found at most record shops for as little as $10. Pretty good for a triple-album, eh?

Thank god for The Clash, because this much integrity is hard to find, and even harder not to lose after success is tasted, but they've held their ground proudly. Way to go.

DRAMA

Eccentric stage characters prove very entertaining

By GAIL JORGENSEN
Special to Playtime

The Ziggy cartoon taped over my desk says, "I hope I'm not grown up yet. I'm not any of the things I wanted to be when I grew up."

Not many of us are.

Do you remember thinking, "When I'm grown up I can do what I want?"

We may not have to go to school anymore, or finish our vegetables. But adulthood brought bosses and bills and babies crying; and we pushed our childhood dreams to the back of our brains and said we have to be realistic.

"Especially in this economy." (Do you say that too?)

For those who enjoy spending some time in a dream world, I'd like to recommend "You Can't Take It With You," currently being presented by the Players Guild of Dearborn.

Written on the heels of the depression in 1936, it's the story of a family which does not succumb to the pressures of the workday world.

That's putting it mildly.

There's Grandpa who raises snakes in the living room, and Paul who makes fireworks in the basement, and Penny who writes plays because a typewriter was delivered to the house by mistake...

And a whole houseful of other characters who are kooky and eccentric and lots of other things, but definitely not crazy.

However, the idyllic life of the Sycamore family is interrupted, first by the arrival of an IRS man, who demands to know why Grandpa has never paid any income tax!

Then Alice, the only family member with an outside job, falls in love with the boss's son. Although young Tony Kirby finds the family very charming, Alice worries that Tony's parents will not be so understanding.

Needless to say, the Kirbys arrive unexpectedly in the midst of the typical Sycamore confusion. Essie is having a dancing lesson from her domineering Russian teacher; Mr. DePinna is posing as a discus thrower in a toga; Ed is practicing the xylophone; a drunken actress has passed out on the sofa...

Should I mention the police raid and the fireworks' explosion? Not even our childhood imaginations were this wild!

But by the play's conclusion, Mr. Kirby is re-examining his priorities, and Grandpa beats his income tax rap besides.

The Players Guild gives an enjoyable presentation of this timeless Kaufman and Hart classic. The audience (a full house, incidentally) was kept laughing throughout.

The performers were all captivating. Ursula Jackson's endearing little Penny was beautifully balanced by Nancy Wolter as the boyishly brash ballerina, Essie.

Jim Shader brought the proper gentle dignity to the role of Grandpa, and Manfred Heuser almost took over the stage with his dynamic interpretation of Boris Kolenkhov, the Russian.

I particularly enjoyed the comedy sense of Jim Hand in his small part as the harried IRS man. And the audience clapped every time Rita Haas collapsed on the couch. Her drunken reveries were hilarious.

Occasionally the actors' timing seemed a bit off, but not enough to mar the enjoyment of a delightful play. The only thing I wondered about was how the Sycamores managed to keep their living room so neat! I'd expected at least as much clutter on the set as my family makes at home!

"You Can't Take It With You" will be presented again this Fri., Sat. and Sun. evenings (Feb. 6, 7 and 8) at 8 p.m., at the Guild Playhouse, 21730 Madison (off Monroe). Call 277-9736 for ticket information.

Life as music critic has its ups and downs, reviewer learns

By JOHN SPELICH
Special to Playtime

Its been four months since I began writing music critiques for The Associated Newspapers. I feel it's about time to review my progress (pardon the pun).

I really like my work—the job consists of hanging out at a bar, listening to bands, snapping a few photos and writing a story.

You know, it's funny to think that the date I started to review live bands coincides with the date I began writing for the ANP. This makes me pretty new to reviewing (I know what you're saying. You're saying, "I know. I read your stuff." However, the joke's on you, I just write it, you're the one who reads it).

One rule I have always tried to live by is simply: give the band a fair chance. I mean, Rome wasn't built in a day. Obviously, the band in question took a lot of time to prepare the music and stage displays used across this great country of ours. The least I can do is take the time to review it properly.

You don't think Mick Jagger, when composing "Sympathy For The Devil," said, "Keefer, ya'll go 'who... who...' 126 times while I fake an orgasm," now do you? Come on, you didn't fall off a turnip truck yesterday. Readers are smarter than that. I would bet the ranch that more thought went into the song than that.

While becoming a reviewer, I had to get used to the behavior exhibited in clubs. I say this in retrospect because it has only been recently that I have spent an evening in a club watching a band without touching any alcohol. Ruins the train of thought, if you know what I mean.

I'm not kidding. If you keep your eyes open, you see the darndest things. For instance, just because you have a camera around your neck, suddenly all the women in the bar are your intimate friends (some of the men too!). It seems everyone has a little ham in them, especially if they have a little vodka to go along with it. It can be good for the ego! (From now on when I ask a girl out, my camera will be around my neck.)

Going backstage to interview a star

can be a harrowing experience. Groupies can be tough customers. They won't take anything from anybody. I am constantly on guard against attacks when pushing through a crowd of them.

The thing about groupies is they are everywhere. Every band has their groupies. Even Lawrence Welk has his groupies waiting at the stage door for him. The only difference between his and the Rolling Stones' groupies is that when Larry emerges from the door, five Med-Evac teams have to stand by, countershock paddles and I.V.'s in hand, to restart any feeble hearts in the crowd.

One thing about being a rock reviewer, after awhile, with practice you can effectively drop names in any conversation. I mean, after all, people think you know all the stars. As Steve Martin would say, "Sammy Davis Jr., personal friend mine."

One of the biggest lessons I learned in the rock review world is: Clothes make the man.

Take my interview with George Thorogood. I wanted to make a good impression so I dressed up in my good khaki pants, Florsheim shoes, Christian Dior sweater, and my button-down Cardin shirt. When I went to talk to him, Lonesome George took one look at me and, much to my embarrassment said, "Oh my God, it's the F.B.I."

From then on, it's been T-shirts and ragged jeans. Better to be safe than sorry.

THE LEARNING PROCESS

The key to being an efficient reviewer is in the assimilation process. I took a correspondence course from the Kim McAuliffe School of Music Critique. It seems I flunked out because I couldn't complete the first assignment. I couldn't fit the words "jams, licks, spunky, and mean" into the same paragraph while simultaneously miscounting the number of encores and misquoting the talent.

So I decided to go it alone. The "College of Hard Knocks," as it were.

I decided I had to create an image. I told the boss to tell everyone I was a burned-out acid-head. "Hey, If he (Continued on Page B-2)

The List is everything

Trials and tribulations of a new music reviewer

lives in Ann Arbor, he must be. Right?" People began to ask the boss if I could score them any stuff cheap.

One morning, my image enhanced itself without any help from me. I was sleeping soundly when at approximately 11:45 a.m., the phone rang. I rolled over and yanked the receiver out of its cradle. In my best gurgled, I mumbled, "What?"

"What the hell is the deal? Why did you kick down the stage door at the Jackson Browne concert?" The voice belonged to my editor.

Not thinking clearly, I responded, "because it was there?"

"We're cutting your pay." I laughed (to myself, of course). "OK Boss. Can I keep the desk?"

"What did you hope to prove by that?" he demanded.

Deciding a non-sequitur was appropriate, I replied, "I bet your wife made tuna fish for lunch again."

In his best Lou Grant voice he barked, "You have exactly one minute to explain yourself or..."

As I tuned him out, I groped for the meanest, toughest thing I could do (when you're laying in bed, dressed in blue P.J.'s, you can only be so tough). I hung up on him.

Obviously you aren't laughing at this. That's because you haven't read the "National Enquirer" yet. They have the real story.

It seems I was trying to think of a way to interview Jackson Browne when I hit upon an idea—go to the stage door and ask to see him. Simple, right?

So that's what I did. I approached two 6-foot-8 gentlemen who were apparently designed to keep out all undesirables. They had THE LIST. Apparently, in the rock world, they threaten you with THE LIST.

If your name isn't on THE LIST, you are as good as a non-person to the bouncers, with good reason I might add. Why should they have to listen to sob stories and pleas for exceptions all evening? THE LIST protects them from all this. The only known cures for THE LIST: Prior arrangement to be a part of it, or a beautiful blonde in tight clothes.

So, I wasn't on THE LIST. So after making a token plea for exception, explaining the nature of my business and who I worked for (no small task, that), I was asked to leave. I decided to employ one more pretty please. It didn't work. Realizing these two pituitary cases would kill me unless I complied, I boogied. Now, about that door....

WHO ARE YOU?

Speaking of explaining who I work for, that gets to be a story in itself.

I call a club, bar, etc. "Who are you with?" they have the gall to ask.

"The Associated Newspapers."

"A.P.?"

"No. The Associated Newspapers of Wayne, Michigan."

"Wow. I didn't know A.P. had an office in Wayne."

"No, no. The Associated Newspapers. You know. The Eagle which serves six communities on the west-side of Detroit."

"Why would A.P. want to review Steve Nardella?"

"No you fool. The ANP."

"Do you know Dan Rather?"

"AARGH!"

Now if anyone asks, I answer, "Rolling Stone."

No question about that. Besides creating an image, I learned how to act "cool" when I make the scene. First I adopt a comatose look on my face. Then I begin to B.S. about rock gossip (What? Mick did what to whom?) Before going any further, I leave the table without excusing myself and go into the men's room. Once safely hidden in one of the stalls, I powder my nostrils with baking soda, cut fine with sugar added of course. I force my eyes wide-open and practice speeding my voice up. I return to the table alternately wiping my nose and sniffing. Works wonders with the ladies.

Finally, to let you know I'm still trying, I was in the U-M library researching the jargon appropriate for rock and roll critique when I came across a book, copyrighted in 1968, containing terms such as, "bitchin", boss, gear, fab, and groovy." They seemed somewhat outdated. I decided to wing it with "neat, swell, and tough."

Someone get McAuliffe on the line please? I need an adjective.

'Panorama of pottery' returns Saturday to Henry Ford Museum

Henry Ford Museum's exhibit, "Panorama of Pottery," returns for a second year from Saturday through March 1. Again this year it could easily be subtitled, "A program with visitor participation offering everything you always wanted to know about pottery but didn't know who to ask."

The exhibit will begin with a potter making reproductions from the Henry Ford Museum collections. There will also be live demonstrations of decorating redware and craftsmen showing methods of slip casting, drape molding and examples of waxing, glazing and decorating a candlestick.

Slip casting is a method by which the clay mixture, or slip, is poured inside a hinged mold. A coating of the material adheres to the inside of the mold while the rest is poured out. After the slip hardens, the mold is pulled away. In drape molding, the clay is draped over a mold, left to harden, then removed and the piece is finished.

"Panorama of Pottery" also provides a hands-on experience for visitors. Six potter's wheels, using kick-power, are available with clay samples for visitors to try their hands at making a small bowl—or whatever else it develops into.

Another, hands-on segment will allow visitors to work with the various methods of decorating pottery, including stippling, slip trail and sgraffito. In addition, there will be demonstrations of decorating stoneware.

Featured will be cases of redware and stoneware selected from the Museum's collections, and several cases illustrating reproductions of Museum pieces, many available for purchase. An exhibit of the various clays used to make redware and a slide presentation on the preparation of the clay for the potter's wheel will also be included.

Another display, using cut-away illustrations, will show the steps necessary to make a candleholder, an inkwell, a grease lamp and a small bottle.

There is no additional charge for "Panorama of Pottery," beyond regular Museum admission of $4.75 for adults, $2.50 for children six or 12 or the special senior citizen rate of $.4. Children under six are admitted free of charge.

'Scanners' is above most schlock horror films

MOVIES

'Scanners,' from Avco Embassy Pictures. Written and directed by David Cronenberg. Starring Jennifer O'Neill, Stephen Lack, Patrick McGeehan. Rated 'R.'

By J. T. YURKO
Special to Playtime
The only film-goers who may recognize the name David Cronenberg are those who attend drive-ins on a Saturday night for a double-feature horror show.

Working as a Canadian filmmaker, Cronenberg has written and directed only a handful of films which have seen minimal exposure in the U.S. (resulting in a small but devout cult following). In Europe and especially in England, however, his films have achieved some measure of success and festival awards.

With titles such as "Rabid," "The Brood," and "They Came From Within" (which could be the title of any of his films), Cronenberg has built a reputation as a director of the bizarre and the grotesque, with an accent on the scatological. There are no "aliens" in his films as he clearly and graphically states that the terror is within ourselves, and the creatures he does create are a virtual materialization of our fears and phobias.

"Scanners" is the title of his latest effort, and with a good distributor (Avco-Embassy) and big-name stars (Jennifer O'Neill, Patrick McGeehan) this will be his most widely seen film. Whether or not it will be widely appreciated is another matter, as Cronenberg himself would be quick to admit that his films are not for all tastes.

The title refers to people who possess a form of telepathy that enables them to read and control the thoughts of those around them. Control of the Scanners and the Scanners' battles among themselves are what make up the basis of the film.

In one scene sure to become notorious, two Scanners are engaged in a furious telepathic duel, that ends with one man's head exploding in a shower of blood and brains.

slow-motion preponderance of stylistics.

Much of "Scanners" shows the work of an unseasoned director and contains a laughably poor performance by Stephen Lack, but Cronenberg presents some uniquely bizarre visions as well as a consistency of theme that combine to make his work a step above most quickie schlock horror films.

Recreation room in use

Want to develop your physique, or trim an inch off your hips and thighs, then head over to the exercise room at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland.

The exercise room recently was opened to the public. The cost is 50 cents per half hour for residents with valid identification and $1 per half hour for non-residents and those without valid ID.

The number of persons in the room at one time is limited to 10, and youths 15 years and under must be accompanied by an adult.

Proper attire — shirt, shorts or sweat suit with soft athletic shoes — is required, and participants must provide their full name, address, telephone number and age when signing up for the room. No advance or phone reservations, will be accepted.

No smoking, food or beverages are permitted in the room.

General public—both men and women — hours will be 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 4 to 9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The Tri-City Therapeutic Recreation Program participants will be utilizing the room from 6 to 7 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and 12 to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Hours for women only will be 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday and 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

The schedule is subject to change. Further information on the exercise room can be obtained by contacting the Bailey Center at 722-7620.

Fedora Horowitz recital set Sunday at Schoolcraft

Fedora Horowitz will perform a piano recital in the Schoolcraft College Waterman Campus Center at 4 p.m. Sunday. General Admission is $2, with Schoolcraft students and senior citizens to be admitted free.

Horowitz will perform works by Bach, Ravel and Chopin at Schoolcraft, which is located on Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile, in Livonia.

Born in Romania, she graduated from the Bucharest Conservatory in 1960. She has been a soloist with major symphonies here and abroad, including the Israeli Broadcasting Orchestra, the Charlotte Symphony and the University of North Carolina.

Horowitz has taught piano and chamber classes in the Rubin Academy of Music, Jerusalem; the University of North Carolina; Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

A New York Times critic wrote of her Lincoln Center debut in 1974: "The pianist Fedora Horowitz may legitimately be welcomed as another Horowitz...she can carry her famous name without apology. Honest and sensible performance...a substantial musician..."

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the college's bookstore and will be available at the door. For additional information, phone the Cultural & Public Affairs office at 591-6400, ext. 410.

Greenfield Village Players to perform 'Dear Ruth'

Long distance romance by mail was a common experience during World War II. But it was never as mixed up as in the comedy, "Dear Ruth," which opens Friday at the Henry Ford Museum Theater.

In "Dear Ruth" the 15-year-old Miriam Wilkins helps the war effort by sending romantic letters to a gunner in Italy, signing the letters with her sister's name. Her sister, Ruth, is a sophisticated 22-year-old, engaged to marry a bank executive.

When gunner Bill Seawright comes home to meet his "love," the troubles begin. Ruth doesn't want to hurt the boisterous lieutenant so she plays along while her boyfriend fumes with jealousy.

Norman Krasna's "Dear Ruth" was a smash hit on Broadway in 1944 and became a successful motion picture.

The Greenfield Village Players will perform the comedy Fridays and Saturdays at the Henry Ford Museum Theater through March 14 with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $4.25.

Courtroom drama coming to Plymouth

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will present "Night of January 16th," a courtroom drama by Ayn Rand on February 6, 7, 13, 14, 20 and 21 at 8 p.m. and February 15 at 7 p.m.

The play, which is a murder trial with the jury selected from the audience, will be performed at the Plymouth courtroom at the Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main Street. Tickets are priced at $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for students under 18 and senior citizens. To assure seating on the date desired, order tickets by mailing a check to Plymouth Theatre Guild, Post Office Box 451, Plymouth, 48170 or call Robin Galick at 261-2875.

Glen W. Ruch, Pamela S. Kress wed in Carmel, Indiana church

Orchard Park Presbyterian Church in Carmel, Ind. was the setting Dec. 20 for the morning ceremony which joined Pamela Sally Kress and Glen Wakeman Ruch, both of Indianapolis, Ind., in holy matrimony.

The double ring rite, attended by members of the immediate family, was conducted by Pastor William Fogg at eleven o'clock.

Pam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Kress of Belleville and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Ruch of Carmel, Ind.

For the candlelight service the altar was appointed with two 7-branch candelabras and a centerpiece of red carnations, holy, pine and pine cones.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a floor-length gown of organza over taffeta. Styled with a Queen Anne neckline, bishop sleeves and a cathedral-length train, the dress was embellished with silk venise lace and seed pearl embroidery.

Her chapel-length veil, banded in lace, was held by a little Juliet cap covered with venise lace and seed pearls. Her cascading bouquet was comprised of red, white and variegated carnations, stephanotis and variegated holly and pine.

Bridal accessories included pearl earrings and necklace from her bridegroom and a handkerchief belonging to her mother which has been hand-embroidered by her grandmother.

Patricia Sheff of Ypsilanti was her sister's only attendant in a red jersey knit floor-length gown designed with a lace yoke and stand-up collar. The nosegay she carried contained the same flowers found in the bride's bouquet.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Steven Ruch of Indianapolis, to serve as best man.

Mrs. Kress wore for her daughter's wedding a pale blue qiana gown with a floor-length jacket. The orchid she pinned to the shoulder was accented with variegated holly. A similar corsage was presented to the bridegroom's mother who donned a navy blue knit gown for the occasion.

Both mothers had been honored with long-stemmed red roses as the newlyweds left the altar.

Following the reception at Hollyhock Hill in Indianapolis, the young couple honeymooned at the Marriott Inn there. A belated trip to Florida is planned for spring.

The new Mrs. Ruch graduated in 1972 from Belleville High School and later attended Eastern Michigan University where she affiliated with Alpha Sigma Tau sorority. For two years she was manager of the University of Michigan Men's Varsity Swim and Diving Team. At the present time she is working for Miles, Segal and Macey, attorneys at law, in Indianapolis.

Her husband is a graduate of Carmel High School and Rose-Hillman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Ind. He was a member of Scabbard and Blade, ROTC and the I.E.E.E. and is a first lieutenant in the Indiana National Guard and second in command with Company C, 38th Division. An electronic engineer, he is with RCA Consumer Electronics in Indianapolis.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

After having given you two rather enthusiastic "reviews" (my impressions) of works by Cynthia Freeman (among today's big names in fiction writers) it's with disappointment that I have to say "Don't bother" in regard to her latest, "Come Pour the Wine."

After my recent panning of Kenn Follett's latest book, I feel like a real Simon Legree in doing still another negative report.

But after reading and truly enjoying "Portraits", Freeman's first BIG seller in which each of her characters is vividly and colorfully etched, in which her research gives us an enlightening picture of Jewish emigrants and in which her story constantly matures and adds "meat" to its bones, this latest so-called best seller is rather a dud.

But — if you don't care about a plot, fascinating people or lively dialogue but DO dote on boy-meets-girl; girl pursues boy in day dreams (which fill PAGES); girl confronts boy; girl and boy tumble between the sheets (with our heroine justifying her actions with "God works in mysterious ways"); boy, a supposed confirmed bachelor, surrenders and marries, blah, blah, blah, — this is YOUR kind of tale.

Almost a third of the book is devoted to insipid bedroom encounters and they are BOR-ING! The author NEVER develops her heroine's role as a fashion model; ALL you learn is that's what she does when she isn't longing for her reluctant lover. But compared to the background on the hero, that's a lot of information since no where in the entire story do you find what HE does for a living.

Freeman's inane dialogues (I really can't believe she wrote this book) are an insult to the reader. What 25-year-old man in TODAY'S society would call today's woman a "little minx"? And Freeman obviously has had little to do with toddlers (or has forgotten) since she describes the first step of a (normal) child at 20 months as BRILLIANT.

The sad thing is it starts OUT with so much promise and you keep expecting it to pick up momentum but, alas, it just gets duller by the chapter with our heroine filling her time taking pictures, working on needlepoint, cooking... A trite, mundane little once-upon-a-time waste of pages... and ink.

Again, here is a writer taking quick advantage of a first-rate novel (Portraits) by getting her name out to the reading public again PRONTO. And if, because of my enthusiasm over THAT novel and "World Full of Strangers", you went out and paid good money for "CPTW", I DO apologize.

QUICK, EASY, DELICIOUS... that's how I'll describe the simple dressing I put together the other night for my fruit-salad-for-one. Figuring I'd like just a little "something" on my orange, pear and banana mixture, I took a scant tablespoon of honey, thinned it just enough with orange juice and then shook in a little celery seed. PERFECT!

And, while we're on the subject of food (that wonderful stuff that can be so-o-rainous to our health), here's a recipe sent in by a Westland reader, Marilyn Tuschman, who says she had the wafers at a bridal luncheon and begged the recipe off the hostess. And, it's nice to hear, she enjoys reading "potpourri".

HONEY WAFERS

- 3 egg whites
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans.

Beat egg whites in a large mixing bowl until stiff. Gradually beat in honey; stir in crumbs and pecans. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a well-greased cookie sheet. Bake at 300 degrees about 8 minutes or until set and lightly browned. Makes about 3 dozen wafers.

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW... that baby giraffes are about 6-feet tall when they are born. By comparison, the baby kangaroo is the size of a bumblebee at birth.

... that Kentucky law prohibits a woman from marrying the same man four times. (ONCE was not enough!)

... that the smallest existing carnivore is the least weasel or dwarf weasel which is found in Siberia and weighs between 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 ounces.

... that the commonest sound in language is the "a" as pronounced in our word "father." No language is known that does not contain this sound.

... that Connecticut law forbids a man to write love letters to a girl whose mother has forbidden him to see her.

... that the custom of "knocking on wood" began because people hoped the noise would prevent evil spirits from hearing about their good luck and taking it away from them.

Feinsilber and Mead again provide us with a few amazing facts of everyday life and you might be surprised to know that...

On an average day, the snack bars at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, the world's busiest, sell 5,479 hot dogs, covered with 12 gallons of relish and nine gallons of mustard, and washed down by 890 gallons of coffee.

The average owner of a microwave oven uses it more often to boil water for coffee than for anything else, the New York Times learned.

The average American consumes 60 times as much salt as he or she needs. If you're average, you eat fewer eggs than you used to. Americans eat 276 per annum, two thirds of what they put away in the peak year of 1945 when per-capita consumption was 403.

One in five American senior citizens eats eggs every day. Fewer than one child in 10 eats eggs daily.

THE BOTTOM LINE: There's only one person more foolish than the man who trusts nobody, and that's the man who trusts everybody.

Two Romulus women named to head up G. S. cookie sales

The Area Cookie Chairmen in your community for the 1981 Huron Valley Girl Scout Council Cookie Sale are: Connie Morris of 37545 Walnut Dr., Romulus, and Karen Charkiewicz of 12672 Hannan, Romulus.

The two women are among some 40 persons appointed by Council Cookie Sale Chairman, Anita Apley, of Ann Arbor. As part of her responsibilities, they will help to organize and conduct the sale in this area by coordinating individual troop efforts.

The goal for this year's sale which runs through Feb. 17, is to sell 500,000 boxes. If this goal is reached, it will mean a Girl Scout profit of $425,000. Of this money, $125,000 will go for direct troop program costs. The remaining funds will go to the Council to insure a high standard of quality program available to Girl Scouts in Washtenaw, southwestern Wayne, northern Monroe and Livingston Counties.

The cost of the Cookies is $1.50 per box. Order taking continues until Feb. 17. Deliveries begin March 16 and end March 27.

If a Girl Scout missed your house while she was out selling cookies, call the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at 483-2370 for information on how to place your order.

This year girls are selling seven kinds of cookies: thin mints, peanut butter patties, assorted sandwich cremes, shortbreads, peanut butter sandwich, sumores and old fashioned oatmeal.

Washtenaw CC sets courses dealing with mature adult

Maturity brings with it both joys and changes. Several courses at Washtenaw Community College this term explore the differences age makes, and older persons; their families, and those who work with the elderly are invited to attend.

Aging and the Family, beginning March 4, discusses family development with respect to the life cycle, maintaining independence, and developing new relationships and options. Continuing Education Units are available for this course. Class meets for five Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Family Education Building on the main Washtenaw Community College campus, 4800 East Huron River Drive in Ann Arbor. A fee of $15 will be charged.

Building Relationships Among Generations is a 1-day workshop of ideas, information, and activities regarding relationships among generations in families. The workshop will be held, March 28 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Family Education Building. Participants should bring a brown-bag lunch, and the fee for the all-day session is $5.

Intergenerational Resource Sharing is a 1-day seminar for the professional or paraprofessional who works with people who deal with elderly persons or who is thinking about introducing the subject to students or workers. This is a "how-to" session to stimulate awareness and understanding of the elderly. Class time is 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 7 with a break midday for a brown-bag lunch. Course fee is $10.

Also of interest to older persons and their families and friends is a series of Saturday seminar offered at the College this term. Meeting on main campus February 21 and March 21 classes begin at 10 a.m. and last till 4 p.m. each day, and no fees are charged.

Use of independent living and how to manage resources, physical environment, and employment opportunities—is the topic for the February seminar. The third seminar in March focuses on Handicapped Consumer Advocacy.

Put on your dancin' shoes

Valentine's Day is just a week away and you're invited to celebrate the special day at the Valentine Dance planned by the Altar Society of St. Anthony's Church. Assembling to remind you that tickets must be reserved by calling 699-2654 are Rita Haynes, secretary (standing from left) and Virginia Carnahan, ticket chairman; Betty Ostrowski, co-chairman with Madelyn Pellegrini (center); Joyce Phillips, president; and Stephanie Slaughter, publicity. ## Just in passing

Senior citizen? Not just yet, thanks!

By KAY DeBORD

(Editor's Note: This week's Just in Passing is a repeat of a column that appeared in the Suburban Living section in March, 1979 and is repeated at the request of a couple of people whose near and dear ones are having traumatic reactions to recent birthdays — in the hope they will appreciate this writer's reaction to a "condition" they share — KD)

I had a traumatic experience last week.

A very nice lady included me in the ranks of "senior citizens."

Please understand. I have nothing against senior citizens. In fact, I expect to be one a few years from now (not liking the alternative), but I don't plan to rush it.

It will take time to adjust to being a senior citizen, just as once the novelty of being a grandparent subsided it took time to see myself as a "grandma."

And with the exception of feeling a deep interest in the health, development and activities of our grandchildren, not to mention a deep urge to hug or cuddle them at any given time, I don't quite fit into my earlier concept of a grandparent.

That also holds true of my concept of a senior citizen.

There is no need to deluge me with information about all the vim and vigor and activities of seniors. If anyone knows about them, I do. I respect and admire them.

But I'm not READY yet!

I carefully ignore creaks in the joints as I fold to the floor for a game of "fight for the toy" with our dog — and I feel a bit silly if someone catches me walking like a tightrope walker on parking lot dividers or playing tag with the dog in the background.

I also have been known to play catch with my grandsons to the detriment of my manicure.

My grandmas, lovely ladies that they were, never did such things. But, then they never quite fit the mold of what is today the "senior citizen."

They just got older, did as much as they could as long as they could and then quietly went to their just reward.

Come to think of it, it would be hard to fit today's "seniors" in a mold. Even to describe them as a body of people is difficult because there are so many varying personalities and degrees of involvement with programs and the community.

How many seniors risk their pains and aches by sitting on the front steps on an early spring or fall night when most people are snug in beds and contemplate the stars, listen to the sounds of jockeying trains and watch for the lights of jet planes departing for spots unknown?

I do. But then I told you I wasn't ready yet.

I haven't even reached the stage where I would rather wear comfortable shoes than stylish ones and I haven't given up on the "battle of the bulge," although it isn't easy.

So please understand if I beg off of senior citizen status for a while — the time will come!

August wedding planned

The engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Marie Fitzpatrick to A/1c Robert E. Champagne Jr. is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Glen M. Fitzpatrick of 38049 Castle Dr., Romulus.

The young couple plan to be married Aug. 22 at the Charleston Air Force Base Chapel in South Carolina.

The bride-elect, a 1979 graduate of Aquinas High School in Southgate, is currently attending Henry Ford Community College while employed at the Romulus Recreation Department.

Her fiancé, who is serving with the U.S. Air Force at Charleston Air Force Base, is a 1979 graduate of Romulus High School.

Junior Study Club has a 'first' - - State Federation officers visit

Two very special guests from the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs prompted an early dinner meeting for 10 members of the Belleville Junior Study Club on Jan. 21. The 6 p.m. gathering at the Tin Lizzie was in honor of the visit of Mrs. Darlene Berent of Madison Heights, president of the MSFWC and Mrs. Carole Tittsworth, its junior director.

With 10,000 members in 237 general and junior clubs and 600 members in associate organizations throughout the state, the MSFWC is the largest organization of volunteer clubwomen in Michigan. Its parent organizations, the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) with 589,371 members in 12,526 clubs and more than 10 million members in associate organizations, is the largest organization of women in the world.

A "first" for the Belleville club, the visit of the two state officers was later continued at the home of Sharlene Tator on High Street where 14 regular members and two guests, Mrs. Gloria Gardner and Mrs. Delphine Dudick, were introduced to the dignitaries.

During the business session conducted by president Cathy Horste the group took a moment of silent prayer for the release of the 52 American hostages from Iran.

They also agreed to share a joint fund-raising project with the Van Buren Township History Book Committee, the details of which will be announced soon.

Adoption of the club constitution, which has been in the writing for over a year, was the highlight of the meeting. The major change involves the removal of all discriminatory clauses such as sex and age.

Also announced was the call from the National Republican Party which is looking for clubwomen who might be interested in working for the committee for the next four years.

Following adjournment the group constructed 30 centerpieces for the upcoming card party set for Feb. 18 at Trinity Episcopal Church. Refreshments followed.

Family gathers for mom's 91st birthday

In celebration of her 91st birthday Mrs. Lavern (Aleda) Sayre (better known as "Sadie") was a guest Sunday, Jan. 25, at the home of her daughter and husband, Winifred and Charles Wolf of Plymouth.

During the afternoon, 25 members of her family came to offer their congratulations including her other daughter and husband, Jean and Don Rank of Plymouth; and her son, James and wife, Joan, of Morton - Taylor Road. Also present for an afternoon of "snacks," birthday cake and ice cream, were nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren coming from Saginaw, Livonia, Ann Arbor, Plymouth and Belleville.

Mrs. Sayre, formerly lived on Ecorse Road and now is making her home at Gilbert Residence in Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maki were weekend guests of their son, Alan, and wife at Pigeon.

A former West Columbia Avenue resident, Sam Wilson, now of Ottawa, Ohio, was calling on relatives and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton.

Mrs. Verna Artley of Sault Ste. Marie has been visiting relatives in the area this past week, among them her five sisters living in Belleville.

Mrs. Harold Klaiss and Mrs. Eldon Maynard of River Rouge were Sunday guests of a long-time friend, Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty Street.

Members of Ypsilanti Chapter DAR, Mildred Artley, Betty Gress, Doris Milliman and Dorothy Kellas, Regent of the Chapter, participated in Naturalization Ceremonies at the Ann Arbor Court House Jan. 28 by passing out American Flags and Codes to the 25 new citizens, 23 adults and two children.

On Saturday evening, Stephen Korgal, son of the Peter Korgals of Hull Road, celebrated his 15th birthday.

Present to enjoy cake and ice cream with the family were his grandmothers, Mrs. Frances Korgal and Mrs. Sophia Rose, his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korgal and two daughters.

Out-of-state guests began arriving in Romulus and Ypsilanti last week for the Saturday wedding of Cathy Ann Murray and Phillip L. Beckert which took place at St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

The bride's twin sister, Carol Lee Buelow, came in Jan. 27 from Schaumburg, Ill., with her husband, Jim, and sons, Jimmie and Jeffy. The foursome stayed in Ypsilanti with her parents, the Robert C. Murrys and Saturday Mrs. Buelow was matron of honor for her sister.

Friday arrivals in Romulus at the home of the bridegroom-to-be were a contingent from Canton, Ohio — his mother, Mary M. Beckert; his brother, John F. Beckert II, who was best man, and his wife, Connie, and children, Johnnie, Theresa and Christopher, and a sister, Deborah Winger and her two, Carrie and Cindy. The group shared lodging at Phillip's home and also at Ramada Inn.

Also arriving for the festivities was Phil's dad, John F. Beckert Jr. of Mayfield Heights, Ohio.

At Literary Club

DAR honors Good Citizens

The Ypsilanti Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution held an honors ceremony Jan. 25 for the seven DAR Good Citizens from local schools. The event took place at the Ladies Literary Club in Ypsilanti.

Each Good Citizen, in attendance with his or her parents and high school principal, received a DAR Good Citizens Pin, a certificate of recognition, an American flag and a small green plant.

High school seniors honored were Sue Meyer, Belleville; Susan Uhl, Lincoln;

Lynn Adams, Willow Run; Daneen Larue, Faithway Baptist; Daphne McDermott, Ypsilanti; Susan Wolford, Calvary

Christian Academy and Robert Zeinstra, Huron Valley Lutheran.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas, Regent, conducted a short business meeting; Mrs. Lisa McGuire was chairman of the program; Mrs. Barbara Parsons chaired the tea and Ms. Midge Artley the honors awards.

New on the scene

Teresa Annette Gohl made her debut Jan. 25 amid the hoop-la surrounding the return of the 52 American hostages from Iran. And at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton, that meant yellow ribbons in the hair of the little girl babies.

The second child of Walter (Butch) and Teri Gohl of 15143 Woodmont, Belleville, the infant arrived at 5:57, weighed 7 lbs.-13 ozs. and measured 20 1/2 inches.

She is the new sister of Walter Mathew Gohl who had his second birthday just six days before her birth.

Grandparents include Herb and Dorothy Hoerig of Belleville; Don and Betty Sharp of Chicago, Ill. and Walter and Joyce Gohl of Dearborn Heights.

Mrs. Gohl is the former Teri Hoerig.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Taylor of Kirkridge are announcing the birth of a baby girl, Alison Catherine, on Jan. 27 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The newcomer, their second child, weighed 6 lbs.-5 1/2 ozs. and measured 19 1/2 inches.

Her mother is the former Linda Maki and her big brother is Joshua Alan Taylor, who's 2-years-old.

Proud grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. George Maki of Belleville and Mrs. Catherine Berry of Sunnymead, Calif.

Great-grandparent honors go to Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Keas of Corning, Ark. and Mrs. Fay Domenget of Des Plaines, Ill.

Movie-makers workshop set at library

The Romulus Public Library will sponsor a movie-makers animation workshop on the first three Saturdays in February and the 10:30 a.m. sessions will be open to all school-age children.

On Feb. 7 and 14 the children will work with blank film and create their own movie which will then be shown with a musical background.

On the third week, Feb. 21, they will make their own pinhole camera and learn to use it.

It will be necessary for all participants to register since they will need to bring some simple equipment from home. The workshops are free and children may register by calling the library at 941-9775.

Tin Lizzie offers brunch 'bonus'

There's still time to take advantage of the "fund-raiser" offer made for churches by the Tin Lizzie restaurant management. For the second Sunday in a row, on Feb. 8, diners will be rewarded for trying the eatery's new Sunday brunch, when, by merely writing the name of their church or parish on the back of their tab, they will be putting 50 cents per brunch in that particular treasury.

Tony Gray, marketing director for the Tin Lizzie, is eager for the public (and the community in particular) to stop in and give the fresh new menu a try.

The brunch, which is served buffet style, has a $5.25 tab for adults and is $2.75 for youngsters 10 and under, includes baked omelettes, honey-glazed ham, baked chicken, bacon and sausage, biscuits and gravy, fried potatoes, tossed salad, fresh fruits and the Tin Lizzie's special orange juice drink.

Stop in, the location is 10915 Belleville Road, just north of the I-94 Expressway.

Foul-plagued Salem bows to Bentley

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

Plymouth Salem was the victim of foul play Friday night when the Rocks were upset 44-34 by Livonia Bentley as the officials whistled 35 infractions against Salem.

Only seven fouls were called against the visiting Bulldogs in the Suburban '8' League clash.

Normally such a lop-sided difference at the foul line brings protests from at least one of the coaches — but not in the case of Fred Thomann, the class coach who has led the Rocks to seven consecutive Sub '8' League titles.

You might say he doesn't throw "rocks" at officials.

He did say he felt there may have been a different standard used in whistling the infractions, but he felt his squad deserved to lose.

"We just weren't ready to play," he said in describing Salem's loss, which dropped them to second place in the Sub '8' League with a 5-2 mark. That ties them with Bentley and Dearborn Edsel Ford in the runnerup spot, one-half game behind league-leading Dearborn's 5-1 slate.

Salem, now 9-4 overall, weren't scheduled Tuesday night and many in the crowd felt they didn't play much Friday night, either. Bentley came ready to play, hustling to an 11-6 first period lead and extending it to 25-16 at intermission.

The Rocks narrowed the gap to 30-24 after three quarters with an 8-5 advantage in a slow-moving third period, but Bentley continued sinking free throws to take a 14-10 final quarter. Four Rock players had six oints to lead their feeble point production.

Coach Jim Komula's Bulldogs sank 22 of 35 free throws but only managed 11 field goals from the floor in the odd contest. Salem dropped in 16 field goals and a measley 2-of-7 from the charity stripe. Mike Cavicchio led Bentley with 14 points and Kevin Holowicki added 10.

"Bentley came well-prepared and ready to execute," Thomann continued. "They slowed the tempo down and were half-court trapping on defense with great success. We were tentative and just didn't get the job done. "We played hard enough to win, but we didn't play good enough to win," Thomann said. While admitting that the foul calls did seem one-sided, the

Story about a courageous young athlete

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Are there any of us who are immune to personnel tragedy? I don't think so.

And it's especially difficult when that tragedy strikes a vibrant, athletic young person who was — and still is — excited about life. That person is Theresa Fyfe.

"A year ago," says Bill Smith, "Theresa was busy spiking hard shots for the Romulus High School women's volleyball team and last spring she chased down long fly balls for the Lady Eagle's softball team."

"She's really great," Smith added. "But she's now facing the greatest challenge of her life."

That challenge is to stay alive.

What happened was on September 13th of last year, a robbery suspect fleeing from police ran a red light and crashed into Miss Fyfe's car. The suspect's vehicle, according to police reports, was traveling in excess of 100 miles per hour.

Theresa survived the crash.

"But she was in the intensive care unit with head injuries and a broken neck," said Smith, "and she must have been going through hell."

Theresa's will to live led to a miraculous recovery. Doctors were encouraged at her determination and courage. On Christmas Day, through the aid of a customized body-support system, Theresa was allowed to visit home where her parents — Bill and Peggy Fyfe, and her three sisters, "celebrated one of the most beautiful Christmases that they can remember."

An outstanding business education student, Theresa had won the statewide typing contest and placed fourth at the national finals in Minnesota a year ago.

Although hospitalized during the week in Ann Arbor, she has improved to the point where she is now able to stay at home on weekends. Classmates are allowed to visit for a short period, but, obviously, much of her time is required at the hospital for strenuous physical and occupational therapy.

"One of Theresa's greatest ambitions is to maintain her standing as a senior and graduate with the class of '81, a task which seemed almost impossible three months ago," says Smith.

Theresa has not been forgotten by her volleyball team. This year's season has been dedicated to her and a special "Theresa Fyfe Event" has been planned for Feb. 6, the day the Eagles take on Southgate.

On that day, it will be the first time since the accident that Theresa will appear in public.

Proceeds of the Friday volleyball match will be donated to the Fyfe family to help offset the enormous medical expenses.

Doctors at the hospital are hopeful that she can regain most of her mobility.

And when she does it will be the greatest triumph in Theresa Fyfe's young life.

Add her name to those courageous people who show by their personal courage that there are no mountains, no obstacles that can't be overcome — if there is a will.

Joe Falls, the ex-Free Press, now Detroit News sports columnist will be in Wayne at 6:30 p.m., Tues., Feb. 10 to help raise funds for the Special Olympics.

Falls will bring along with him ex-Tiger hurler, Hank Aguirre, who was noted for whizzing the ball past the batters. And for his impotent bat.

Tickets, priced at $10 for adults and $5 for youths 16 and under, are still available. The benefit, which will be held at the Wayne Community Center, Howe and Annapolis, is co-sponsored by the Wayne Jaycees and the Wayne Civitans.

For ticket information please telephone Robert Beeny at 326-7779.

Belleville, Glenn are undefeated

With the dual meet season behind them, area high school wrestling teams will begin their quest for league and district titles in the next two weeks.

And at least two area teams — Belleville, ranked No. 1 in the state in Class A, and Westland John Glenn, the defending Northwest Suburban Conference champ — are favored to win their league championships.

Belleville and Coach Gerry Malecek have an untarnished 5-0 league record and will try to take the title away from Plymouth Salem at Edsel Ford this Saturday.

"I believe that both Salem and Trenton have a good shot at us," Malecek said, "and I'm sure they remember what we did to them a year ago."

What the Tigers pulled off was a stunning upset. After losing to both Trenton and Salem a year ago, in head-on competition, Belleville turned right around and won the league tournament.

Coach Malecek sees Saturday's competitions as "close," but "I really feel we have the edge in this one."

Belleville chalked up its fifth straight league win at the expense of Livonia Bentley, 54-6. The Tigers received winning performances from Darin Harris (98), Brock Nigg (105), Rod McRitchie (112), Fred Vera (132), Kerry O'Keefe (138), Norm Bates (145), Lonnie Renfro (155), Terry Calhoun (165), Mel Richendollar (185), Steve Cook (198) and heavyweight Guy Wood.

Westland John Glenn should be able to continue its monopoly of the Northwest Suburban Conference championship as Coach Bob Lusk's Rockets head into Saturday's tournament at North Farmington with a perfect 5-0 mark.

Preliminaries at North will get underway at 11 a.m., while the finals are scheduled for 3 p.m. The Rockets had little trouble with their arch-rival, Thurston, and with North in their latest outings.

In the meantime Wayne Memorial, which has a 2-2 league record, could sneak off with a part of the Great Lakes 8 Conference title if Coach Don Haney's Zebras can finish atop of the league tournament.

Fordson scrambled the league picture by beating Monroe, the defending champ. The two teams each have one loss and if the Zebras can finish ahead of the two favorites, it could set up a tri-camp situation.

Wayne got an "excellent team effort" in its 48-14 triumph over Wyandotte. The Zebras are riding the crest of a 4-meet winning streak having beaten St. Clair Shores Southlake, 53-18, Harper Woods Notre Dame, 42-27, and Eking out a narrow 34-33 victory over Detroit Catholic Central.

period deadlock. But the damage was done.

Balanced scoring marked Thurston's scorebook, as Frekericks led with 18 points, Ramos hit 15, mainly from the top of the key, and Biskner added 12 more, most of his also coming from the 15-foot range.

Sisson led Glenn with 13, while Tom Smith and Kevin Thweatt each had 10.

Two vital factors in the game were Glenn's cold second half shooting percentage and Thurston's edge from the free throw stripe. Glenn hit 10-of-19 from the floor in the first half but could only manage 9-of-28 field goal attempts in the last 16 minutes. Thurston, meanwhile, hit 8-of-10 free throws in the last period to ice the game.

The Rockets made one final run at Thurston in the final quarter when they cut a 15-point Eagle lead to eight points with 6:10 left in the game. Trailing 45-31, Glenn stole the ball and sharp passed from Sisson and Smith led to Steve Hodges' 3-point play. Then Sisson hit a left-hand shot from 15 feet and Smith sank both ends of a 1-and-1 to close the gap to 46-38.

But Ramos sank 5-of-6 free throws in

Tourney runners-up

Wayne Memorial finished second in the Plymouth Salem-Canton Invitational Girls Volleyball tournament Saturday when the Zebras were downed 15-4 and 15-9 by Livonia Stevenson after winning the opening final game, 20-18. In pool play, they beat Howell, 15-5 and 15-7; knocked off Ypsilanti 15-6, 15-7; defeated Churchill 15-6, 15-8 and took Walled Lake Western, 15-9, 15-9. They beat Fordson in the quarterfinals, 15-4 and 15-5; bounced Howell 15-12 and 15-9 in the semi-finals before dropping the hard-fought finals to the Spartans. Dottie Ali was named Most Valuable Player of the tournament and Pam Matyjasik and Tina Russell were also named to the All-Tournament team. With five seniors and one junior on the starting team, Wayne Memorial leads the Great Lakes '8' Conference with a 6-0 record and is 8-0 in regular competition. Pictured here are Kim Eldridge (front row from left), Lynn Underwood, Kelly Reinink, Pam Matyjasik, Kris Poteau and Carol Stocchi. Back row from left includes Manager Beth Glasgens, Lisa Hayes, Tina Russell, Deanne Levereenz, Dottie Ali, Joan Jackson and Cheryl Trudell. Co-Captains are Reinink, Matyjasik and Ali.

Edsel edges Belleville, 61-59

Belleville Coach Tom Niemi and his Tigers must be wondering what they have to do to win a ball game these days.

"I really don't know if we're not living right or what," moaned Niemi after his team dropped a 61-59 decision to Edsel Ford. "It's really frustrating when you see your kids lose games like these. They're trying hard and you begin to wonder aloud what you have to do to win."

It was Belleville's 10th loss of the year against three victories and the Tigers are now one step above winless Allen Park which is mired in the cellar of the Suburban 8 Conference.

Belleville fell behind 20-11 in the first period against the visiting T-Birds from Dearborn, but with the help of Rich Grantham's six points they caught their league rivals before the intermission and tied it up at 36-all. Edsel managed to outscore their hosts 14-12 and 12-11 the last two periods.

But it was Rob Rodriguez' clutch free throws that settled the issue in favor of the T-Birds. With a couple of seconds left in the game, Rodriguez canned both ends of a one-and-one to break a 59-all deadlock.

Grantham wound up with a game high 25 points as he capitalized on 11 of 15 from the foul line and also pumped in seven field goals. Mike Sampson was the only other Belleville cager to reach double figures. He accounted for 13 points.

The Tigers looked their best at the foul line against the T-Birds as they realized 23 of 29 shots as compared to the winner's 21 of 36 performance.

Belleville has a busy and rough schedule this week. The Tigers clashed with Salem, an upset victim Friday against Bentley, Tuesday night, then will host Bentley Friday night before taking on a powerful Livonia Stevenson quintet Feb. 10.

Churchill upsets Canton

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

The third time was a "charm" for Churchill.

The Chargers of Coach Don Albertson took advantage of cold shooting and an ineffective half-court defense by Canton to post a 49-43 Western Six League victory Friday night.

The Chiefs, who had defeated Churchill in their first league meeting and also in the Christmas Tourney, made it close all the way but a frigid shooting night spelled their doom.

The loss dropped Canton to 3-3, two games behind league-leading Northville (5-1), who edged Farmington Harrison, 63-58, in a battle for first place. The Hawks fell to 4-2, the same as Churchill, while Waterford Mott and Walled Lake Western bring up the rear with 1-5 marks.

Canton took advantage of its home court advantage earlier last week to defeat Belleville, 67-72, in a non-league affair. Coach Craig Bell's Chiefs now stand at 7-6 as they approach the stretch run of the season.

"We didn't play half-court defense very well and our man-to-man defense just couldn't cope with Churchill's quickness this time," Bell explained. "Also, we had a terrible time trying to put the ball in the basket. Sean Houle played his usual good game with 22 points and Steve Tuttle added 10, but the other players couldn't seem to buy a basket."

Matt Thomas and Dave Malek, who got 16 and 13, respectively, against Churchill in the Christmas Tournament game, had a woeful time, Malek hitting only one of 11 floor attempts and Thomas connecting on two-of-14.

"We got a lot of turnovers from Churchill the other games, but their guards have settled down quite a bit and matured over the past several games. Churchill stayed in its zone defense and when they continued to lead, we couldn't force them into man-to-man coverage, which they don't execute as well."

Churchill opened fast, assuming a 16-8 first quarter lead but the Chiefs came roaring back to take the second quarter, 15-8, mainly on the strength of seven points by Tuttle and four by Houle.

Barely trailing 24-33 at intermission, Canton stayed close at 36-34 after three periods, but Churchill's 13-9 fourth quarter margin spelled doom for Canton's chance for victory.

Chris Harvath led the host squad with 14 points, Ron Reed added 13 and Kelsey Thayer had 12 for a well-rounded attack.

Against Belleville, Canton got excellent floor play from guard Dave Malek who guided the attack and tied Sean Houle for scoring honors with 17. Belleville's Mike Sampson fired in 17 in a losing cause for the Tigers.

After battling Livonia Stevenson in a non-league tussle Tuesday night, the Chiefs gear up for a showdown battle with league-leading Northville at home Friday night. Friday's loss to Churchill was crucial in dropping the Chiefs two games behind the Mustangs but Bell is still hoping to grab at least a share of the title in the evenly-balanced Western Six League.

Thurston's 2nd half spurt dooms Glenn

Westlanders are out of title race

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

John Glenn cage coach Dan Henry had two things in mind when his Rockets tangled with Redford Thurston Friday night.

"Stay close to them at halftime and we'll win," he said.

The game plan was simple and Glenn stayed close the first two quarters — even leading 21-18 at halftime — but they lost the game, 59-47. The determining factor was the excellent floor shooting of the Eagles, who canned 19 or 23 free throws in raising their Northwest Suburban League record to 5-1 and 10-3 overall.

"Thurston is the best high school foul-shooting team I've ever seen," Henry said in the quiet of the locker room after the game. "They do that every game," he said, referring to their excellence from the charity stripe.

Although eight free throws in the final quarter kept Thurston comfortably ahead by 10 points or more most of the time, it was the Eagles' 25-10 blitz of the rockets in the third quarter that turned the tide.

Thurston started fast, carving out a 12-6 first period lead before Glenn responded to the large home crowd and battled to a 15-6 second period margin for a 21-18 intermission advantage.

However, the room caved in on the Rockets in the third quarter as Thurston's three quick-moving, good-dribbling, lane-driving ballhandlers — Bob Simon, Andy Ramos and Rich Biskner — pulled out the throttle on Coach Gary Fralick's attack.

With the guards penetrating the lane and passing off, forward Tim Fredericks and center Rich Rudd canned several close-in baskets to give the visitors a sizeable lead.

Trailing 21-18 at the start of the third period, Thurston got a driving basket by Simon, two consecutive lay-ups from Frekericks, a tip-in by Rudd with his left hand and a 15-footer from the center of the circle by Ramos while Glenn responded only with a lay-up by Center Dave Ward and Rob Sisson's 15-footer from the middle of the key. The flurry gave the Visitors a 30-25 lead they never relinquished.

The Eagles flew even higher blitzing the rockets 25-10 in the 8-minute span before a 16-15 final

Little Bill's is zeroing in on hockey title

5 games are left on regular season

Edging a pesky Futurama team 4-3, Little Bill's Trophies increased their lead in the Berrington division of the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League by four points.

Little Bill's had to worry about Tasee Freeze and Benny's Pizzeria who are deadlocked in second with 11-6 records, however, with five games left in the regular season the frontrunner would have to completely fall apart for the challengers to catchup.

The Jock Shop maintained a one-point lead over Johnson Carbonic in the Bonkowski Division. Jake's Lounge dropped four points behind the leader. Little Bill's held off a determined Futurama as Dennis Lapensee, Dan Thomas and Tom Stringer tallied to give Little Bill's a 3-0 lead in the first period.

Bob Eggers scored early in the second period for Futurama to make it 3-1.

Less than one minute had passed in the third period when Dennis Lapensee netted his second puck of the game for Little Bills to give them a 4-1 lead.

Futurama applied pressure with Craig Averill and Gary Naumoff rattling the net only to fall one goal short.

Thomas finished the game for Little Bill's with one goal and one assist while Eugene Taurainen, Tom Tucker and Don Middaugh each had one assist.

Futurama's Gary Naumoff scored one goal and picked up two assists. Craig Averill netted one puck and assisted another goal. With Nick Palise and Ed Ross picking up one assist.

Extra Point Bar & A-C appeared to have the game in hand through the second period in the contest against the Jock Shop, only to have the Jock Shop score seven times in the third period to secure a 9-5 win.

Jack Bockstanz scored twice for Extra Point, also picking up one assist with Nelson Vanderburgh, Dave Fawkes and Dan Kubany accounting for the other three goals. Fawkes also picked up one assist while Joel Layne finished the contest with two assists. Greg Piscopink, Tony Spada and Ray Erickson assisted one goal each.

Jerry Robertson scored three goals for the Jock Shop within one minute, also assisted two other goals to finish the game with five points.

Ron Wojewski netted the puck twice in addition to assisting three goals. Jerry Townsend also scored twice and picked up one assist, Curtis Oger tallied for one goal and assisted two.

Jack Willard accounted for the other goal.

Mike Villemure finished the game with two assists while Bill Creekmore, Tony Ignagni, Bill McKusker, Bob Murray and Jerry Peterson picked up one assist.

Johnson Carbonic had little trouble skating past Brock Builders 6-0 with goalie Gene Machniak securing his first shutout of the season. Norm Beasley led the team scoring three goals and assisting one other.

Claud Johnston tallied once also picking up three assists. Ron Johnson also scored once in addition to assisting two other goals.

Mike Forynski accounted for the remaining goal while Dennis Broge, Eugene Hudson, Bob Capler and Perry Toepper had one assist each.

Benny's Pizzeria kept its title hopes alive by defeating Jake's Lounge 5-1. Dave Zajac and Chuck Jennette each scored two goals for the winners with Rod Dittmar netting one puck and picking up one assist. Tom Bryans, Chuck Heebsh and Moe Paquette assisted two goals each while Jim Thomas assisted one.

Jake's Lounge failed to get on the scoreboard until late in the final period with Dave Weaver getting the goal, assisted by Terry Jobbitt.

Tasee Freeze had its hands full as Keith Middaugh led Etronic to a 5-2 victory by scoring twice in the contest.

Bob Wood, Rick Mullen and Beebe rounded out Etronic's scoring with Mullen also getting one assist. Dave Roberts assisted two goals for the winners while Dave Fishwick and Dick Burns picked up one assist.

Tasee Freeze got on the scoreboard as Paul Cramer and Al Pulk tallied for one goal each. Picking up the assists were Guy Moise, Paul Briski and Dave Frankling. Over 30 Hockey games are played Sunday nights at the Wayne and Westland Rinks. There is no admission charge.

Sunday, Feb. 8, Johnson Carbonic will get a shot at Etronic at 6:30 p.m.; Benny's Pizzeria clashes with Tasee Freeze at 8 p.m., and Futurama will take on Jake's Lounge at 9:30 p.m. All three contests will be played at the Westland Rink.

Over in Wayne, the Jock Shop has a 9 p.m. meeting with Extra Point Bar & A-C and at 10:30 p.m., Little Bills Trophies plays Brock Builders.

Wayne skaters score 14 goals

Midgets ride high against Redford

With the 1980-81 season coming to a rapid close, the Wayne, 2nd St. Market Midgets traveled to Redford and hosted Dearborn this week and gave both teams a clinic on scoring.

In the two games Wayne racked up 14 goals and 10 of them were power play goals.

Against Redford, Wayne's Midgets skated to a 5-2 victory scoring 4 power play goals.

In the first period Keith Gilbert opened the scoring as he blasted an unassisted slap-shot. It was his 2nd goal of the season and 1st power play goal.

One minute into the second period Gary Vallance (his 7th) converted a pass from Brian Brozowski and Captain Jim Newland while on the power play.

In the third period Terry Kucharski (his 5th) put in the third power play goal of the night and was set up by Newland again.

Brian Mac (his 9th) tipped in a slap-shot by Kucharski to increase Wayne's lead by 2.

With 3 minutes left in the game, Brozowski (his 13th) scored the final tally and again it was while Redford was shorthanded, Doug Mac and Jeff Sandy got credit for the assists.

Against Dearborn, Jeff Sandy (his 3rd) blasted a drive from the left point to tie up the game at the 5:38 mark of the first period, assisted by Rod Bleim and Gary Vallance. 1 minute later Bleim (his 13th) put the red light on and the game winner after he tapped in the rebound as Vallance's wrist shot hit the crossbar.

A minute and 14 seconds into the second period, Captain Jim Newland (his 6th) deflected a centering pass from Bob Gorney in the corner. Then, Wayne scored six-straight power play goals and Goalie Frank Cierpiel did not have any threatening shots to save but played outstanding.

Don Erhart (his 4th) tipped in Doug Mac's shot from the Blue line who was set up by brother Eric. Brian Brozowski (his 14th) banged in a pass from Vallance and Bleim to put Wayne ahead 5-1 at the end of 2.

In the final period, Dearborn played shorthanded most of the time and Wayne capitalized on every opportunity. Kucharski (his 6th) lifted in a rebound into the deserted Dearborn net after Keith Gilbert cranked a slap shot. Then Eric Mac registered the teams' first Hat-Trick of the season as he scored his 7th-8th & 9th goals in a 3 minute span (all power play). Erhart and Vallance registered a playmaker (3 assists) Final 9-1.

The Wayne Midgets are 17-3-2.

Westland Youth soccer league is seeking players, officials

Youth soccer is undergoing a rapid rise in popularity.

In just the past year, participation in youth soccer leagues across the USA has increased about 60 percent, with boys and girls between the ages of 4 and 18 actively involved.

Soccer is emerging as a major sport in our country for the same reasons it is the "No. 1" sport in the world. It is truly everyone's sport, not requiring large investments nor any special or unusual physical qualifications to play.

It is a simple game — easy to learn for men and women alike; for boys and girls to enjoy.

The Westland Youth Soccer League was founded in February, 1979. The first season 162 children played on 9 teams. Three seasons later, the fall of 1980, 420 children played on 22 teams.

Each team has a coach and assistant coach, and team practices are held at least twice a week after school.

Games are held on Saturdays and Sundays and sometimes during mid-week on the four fields. At the end of the season every player on the 8 year-and-under team received a medal and above that age every first and second place team receives a trophy.

To become a member of the Westland Youth Soccer League all you have to do is register. There are no tryouts for the team. Any person between 5 and 18 who wants to play will be part of a team and will play. The registrations will be held at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road (behind City Hall) on February 13, 1981 between 7-9 P.M.; February 25, 1981 between 7-9 P.M.; March 16, 1981 between 7-9 P.M.

Any parents who would like to actively participate in the league by coaching or refereeing games, preparing fields or helping in some way are welcome. There are special 3-day seminars conducted by the Westland Youth Soccer League head coach and the head referee for new members.

"WINNING IS FUN, BUT SO IS PLAYING" and this is what it's all about in the Westland Youth Soccer League.

DO SOMETHING DIFFERENT!

The price of gold too high for that Valentine locket? Candy's out because she's on a diet? You want to give Mom something neat? Or your teacher? Or the current guy or gal in your life?

Tell them how you feel about them in three lines or more in the Classified Section of the Associated Newspapers. You won't be telling the whole world but you'll be telling more than 128,000 people, because that's how many readers we have (which is a good thing to keep in mind when you have something to sell).

WIN RED WING HOCKEY TICKETS FOR TWO

To be eligible you must place a Valentine ad. A random drawing will be held February 12th, for 10 lucky winners for 2 Red Wing Hockey Tickets.

Redwood can be room's best friend

Redwood lumber paneling with built-in shelves and counter transforms extra bedroom into an attractive home office/hobby center. Sapwood streaks in Clear grade redwood add visual interest and design variety to the wall. Kiln dried redwood lumber paneling, the most shrink- and warp-proof of all wood paneling materials, can be installed by do-it-yourselfers to add liveability, insulation and value to a house. For more design and construction information, the California Redwood Association offers do-it-yourself construction tipsheet, "Panel a Room With Redwood Lumber," plus a 12-page color idea booklet, "Renew it With Redwood." Send .50 cents for both to the California Redwood Association, Dept. HT-P79, One Lombard Street, San Francisco, CA 94111.

Redwood lumber paneling you design and install can transform an extra bedroom, unfinished basement, attic or other underused space into the family activity center, den, study or hobby area you need.

In addition to providing the natural redwood beauty, paneling a room with redwood lumber can be a rewarding, worthwhile investment in your home's utility, energy efficiency and resale value.

Do-it-yourselfers will find redwood lumber light-weight, easy to handle and available in a variety of grades, textures, patterns and dimensions. As a result, paneled rooms no longer have to follow strict, formal guidelines for patterns and installations.

Instead, paneling with individual redwood boards allows you to create heringbone, diagonal or other imaginative lumber designs to fit your home's needs and your decorating personality. Also, redwood's cinnamon and russett tones are exceptional for blending or contrasting with other materials and textures, such as brass, glass, exposed brick or stone.

Before attempting a paneling project, however, you may wish to divide large paneling jobs into manageable parts.

Projects which can be done in a couple of weekends such as redwood accent walls, wainscoting, a paneled entryway, or a redwood paneled wall unit for hobbies and displays can provide quick, dramatic improvements to interiors while also providing construction experience.

Later, as confidence, budget and ability grow, you may want to panel the rest of the room, the ceiling or even carry a redwood motif throughout the house.

Best for paneling are the knot-free Clear and Clear All Heart redwood grades. Certified Kiln Dried for maximum stability. Clear All Heart redwood is insect and decay resistant and uniformly reddish brown while Clear grade redwood has lively sapwood streaks for dramatic design emphasis.

Redwood lumber is available with smooth or resawn texture in tongue and groove, shiplap or beveled edge patterns. Dimensions range from  $\frac{3}{4}$ - to one-inch thick by 4, 6, or 8 inches wide.

Once you have figured the square footage of the area to be paneled, making allowance for extra trim and subtracting for non-paneled areas, such as windows and doors, your local building supply or lumber dealer should be able to help you order the right amount of lumber. It is suggested to allow 5 percent extra for end trim loss and 15 percent extra for diagonal paneling patterns.

If walls to be paneled are in good condition, redwood lumber paneling can be glued onto existing walls or nailed directly to studs.

For rough, uneven, or badly cracked walls, a simple framework of 1 by 4 or 1 by 3 furring strips, spaced 24 inches apart, should be nailed over existing walls. Furring strips, which can be any kiln dried wood species, should be nailed flush around window, door and other openings. Later, redwood lumber can be applied to trim window casings and door jams, and as facing and molding. Fit shims under furring strips where the walls' surface dips or where furring strips are not uniformly supported.

Before nailing or gluing, arrange redwood boards carefully according to desired grain and color patterns. A little time spent on this step can add creative flare to your paneling project.

Plastic rubbish containers feature varied uses

In the past, a rubbish receptacle was nothing more than a dented, rusting metal container used to hold trash as it passed from home to sanitation truck and, finally, to city dump.

Not so with newer, heavy-duty plastic refuse containers. This variety of trash bin is not only rust- and dent-proof, but it can also be used to store many kinds of home supplies.

While refuse containers have a pretty important job — collecting almost three tons of trash from every American family each year — that's not all they do. Plastic refuse containers, such as Rubbermaid's Roughnecks, for example, can be put to work around the house or in the yard, making day-to-day life a whole lot easier. Here are some of the jobs these containers do well:

- Recycling bins — Separate newspapers, bottles and cans for easy delivery to the recycling plant.

- For the fireplace — Keep firemaking supplies such as kindling, small logs and coal together in 20-gallon containers, and be ready for that first cold night!

- For the lawn — Fertilizer, lime and grass seed stay fresh and dry all year round, and can be carted easily to where they're needed.

- Pet food storage — Whether it's dog food, bird seed or horse feed, you can avoid splitting bags and messy floors.

- Garden supplies — Potting soil, peat moss and wood chips needn't be mistakenly thrown out. Label each canister with its contents and use. These containers are handy for holding hose and rope too.

- For parties — To keep refreshments cold, fill with ice and your favorite beer, wine, soda, or how about a watermelon!

- Clean-up — Instead of the old-fashioned tarpaulin that loses half its leaves, cart them away in a lidded refuse container.

- Driveway — For snowy winters, sand or cinders will make that driveway driveable. Keep a 30-gallon container handy.

With all the uses for a Roughneck refuse container they're still great for their original intent...keeping trash in and bandits out. This 30-gallon Roughneck by Rubbermaid has metal latches on both sides for the best protection around.

direction if you are left-handed. For horizontal paneling, start at the bottom and work up. Test fit all boards, adjusting to keep paneling plumb and square.

Although redwood takes and holds finishes better than other woods, redwood lumber paneling requires no finishes on surfaces away from grease, moisture and dirt, as on ceilings and accent panels. Left unfinished, redwood will gradually darken in color.

For more redwood paneling ideas and construction tips, the California Redwood Association offers construction tipsheet, "Panel a Room With Redwood Lumber," and a full color idea book. # Do-it-yourself basement provides comfortable living Space for study and recreation are probably at a premium in most households with children. But with an unused basement and a little knowledge of construction, you can create an environment that makes relaxing more fun and "booking it" more tolerable for the reluctant student.

A study center makes practical use of a basement area, yet can be blended into the rest of the environment with subtlety and economy of space. When one wall is converted to study and storage purposes, the remainder of the basement can be converted to an electronic entertainment center and a game room.

With the proper tools, the prefinished paneling of your choice and other easily available building materials, you can do the conversion yourself, according to home improvement experts of Masonite Corporation, a leading manufacturer of hard-wood wall paneling. The accompanying photos show how it's done.

(1) Start by measuring the wall areas to be paneled. Include measurements and location of doors, windows, stairways, pipes, ducts and beams. Your local home center or lumber dealer can help you determine the number of panels and other materials you will need. Most paneling comes in 4 by 8 sheets.

(2) Where paneling is to be installed over concrete or masonry, as in the typical basement, first apply a vapor barrier of polyethylene film over the outside walls. Then, using concrete nails, install 2 by 4 stud framing vertically along the wall.

(3) Let panels stand in the basement for a least

48 hours before installation, so that they will adjust to the room conditions. The pattern selected here was Masonite brand Earthwood, a paneling resembling rich brown random-width planks. Panels can be mounted with nails or panel adhesive. In either case, the panels are raised off the floor on 1/4-inch strips of wood.

(4) A study carrel was constructed for each child, with a built-in desk and a big storage closet for books, papers and other paraphernalia. When the doors to the three areas are open and the children are at work, they are completely walled-off so that one cannot visually distract the others.

(5) Desk tops are made of pre-formed laminated-plastic countertops screwed to 2 by 4's in walls.

(6) Earthwood panels were also used to cover the study-cubicle and closet doors, so that when the doors are closed, that end of the room looks like one huge storage closet — which it can eventually become when the children are grown. The core of the doors, which were made on the job, is a framework of 1 inch by 4 inch boards, covered on both sides with the hardboard paneling. Because of the weight and size of the doors, they were hung with four hinges rather than the usual two or three.

(7) The shelves in each closet-storage area were mounted on adjustable bookshelf clips so that they can be shifted up and down. Other storage space (not shown here) was provided in matching cabinets under and adjacent to the

Cork concept: Flooring with multiple personalities

A bathroom can be luxurious — or it can be plush or flamboyant or simply elegant. Unlike most rooms in the home, which reflect your personality, a bathroom can reflect your fantasies. Cork, a new concept in bathroom floors, will turn your fantasy into reality.

Cork-O-Plast, a natural cork flooring, combines the look and resilience of cork with the tough durability and carefree maintenance of pure vinyl.

The natural cork is permanently bonded between vinyl, a moisture-barrier backing and a high quality transparent vinyl wear surface. To maximize water-resistance, each piece is specially edge-sealed.

Have you ever wanted to be a woman of mystery or a man with mystique? SMOKE colored Cork-O-Plast will give your bathroom a cryptic atmosphere.

Do you have inner thoughts of being a leader, strong and powerful? CHARACTER will give you the confidence you need. Bring back the old days of elegance and grace with CLASSIC Cork-O-Plast.

And, for those who dream of being exotic and passionate, try COLOR IT RED Cork-O-Plast for your bathroom floor. Cork-O-Plast is available in four other color and texture patterns, in square tiles or plank strips (up to 36 inches).

It is a beautiful, ageless floor that meets the top quality-with-efficiency demands of today.

Laboratory test results have shown that Cork-O-Plast will withstand abrasion four times better than a standard vinyl tile. The extra wear resistance is due to the high quality of the cork floor's vinyl wear surface.

Prior to its introduction in the home installation consumer market, Cork-O-Plast successfully passed a series of tests for toughness and durability in heavy-traffic commercial building installations.

As a result of its resilient qualities, Cork-O-Plast is not only versatile in looks, but is unusually pleasant to walk on, and it's quiet.

Cork-O-Plast can be installed in any room in the house — dining rooms, living rooms, dens and kitchens. It resists in-dentation from furniture and heels, better than standard vinyl.

In addition, its pure vinyl surface withstands most household chemicals, temporary exposure to alcohol, and some petroleum products, alkalis and acids (diluted and concentrated). It also stands up beautifully against typical spills and grease in the kitchen.

Not only can you create an unusual and unique bathroom, but you can do it yourself. (Cork-O-Plast can be installed on concrete, plywood, or other approved substrates where vinyl flooring can be used.) It's easy as 1-2-3.

1. First, prepare the surface by (a) rough sanding, if necessary to smooth or (b) by stripping wax, film and dirt. Be sure the concrete is well cured before you begin.

2. Apply uniform coating, a water-based adhesive (PC-2) is recommended, with a one-sixteenth inch notched trowel.

3. Put Cork-O-Plast tiles in position — the same as vinyl or other flooring tiles. Follow the same procedure in floor layout as for vinyl tiles.

You now have a new floor. You can also have it professionally installed.

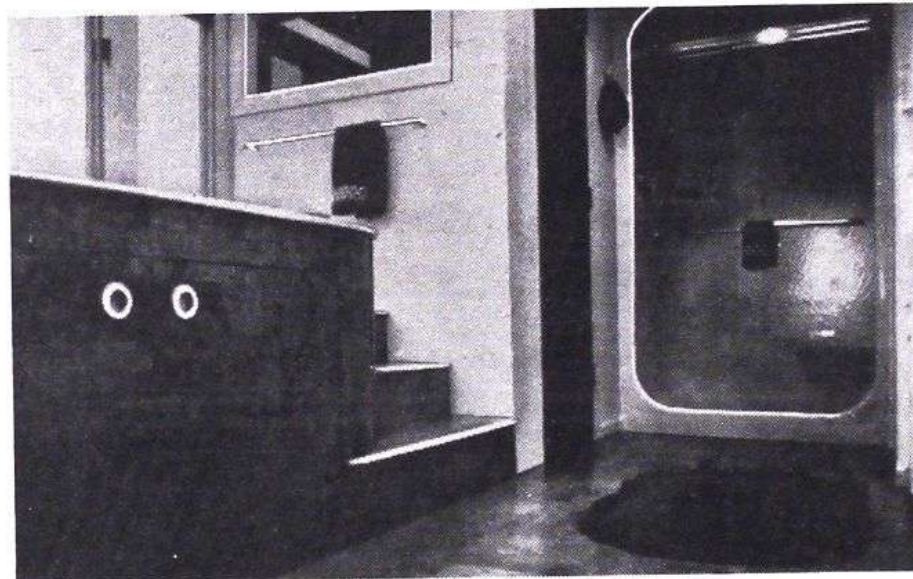

Simplicity of maintenance is another plus for the homemaker. Dirt and dust are easily removed with a damp mopping since the pure vinyl surface is impervious to liquid penetration.

Where a gloss finish is desired, a good quality floor polish such as PermaGrain All Purpose Cleaner may be applied.

The beauty of natural cork combined with its inherent resilience plus the hard-wearing characteristics of pure vinyl, makes cork an exciting new medium for the home planner and remodeler.

With its simple installation steps and its easy maintenance procedures, Cork-O-Plast will leave you more time to enjoy your mysterious or powerful or elegant bathroom.

Cork-O-Plast is available nationally through leading home centers and flooring outlets. For additional information write: PermaGrain Products, Inc., 22 West State Street, Media, PA 19063.

Cork can be installed in any room in the house. It resists indentation from furniture and heels better than standard vinyl and can create an unusual and unique bathroom.

QUALITY FAMILY HOMES

Warner Creek, a sparkling new subdivision, brings a truly high level of housing value to the Ann Arbor area. We sincerely believe we offer today's dollar-conscious home buyers more overall quality in design innovations, building materials, construction integrity, and living comfort. In fact, we didn't finish the inside of one of our model homes just so you can see and compare features that are usually hidden by finished walls or floor covering. We believe comparison will prove that you do get more home for your money at Warner Creek — another great development by Centennial Homes.

Divider beats remodeling

Looking for a way to divide a room's living area without the cost and bother of major remodeling? Consider building a room divider made of decorative wood mouldings.

Today's wood mouldings are available in a variety of stock styles and sizes, making them easy to work with even for a novice to do it yourself. With only a basic knowledge of carpentry, tools and a little imagination, any home handyman can create an attractive and unique room divider.

When creating your own room divider, Wood Mouldings and Millwork Producers say let your imagination have free rein. Make it as simple or ornate as you like, but be sure to design the room divider to meet specific household needs.

A simple wood frame to which decorative mouldings are arranged in a lattice pattern, for example, may be all that's needed to divide a living space. By varying the spacing between the lattice-work, you will be able to close a room off without giving it a "closed in" feeling.

If you're looking for something a little more unusual, consider a room divider that doubles as a plant wall. By designing a room divider similar to a ladder — vertical supports connected by round mouldings — you can hang potted plants on the various rungs, creating a wall of greenery.

Whether you stain it to bring out the natural beauty of the wood or paint it to complement room colors, a room divider of wood mouldings will set any room apart — both physically and decoratively.

For an illustrated 128-page book on the use of wood moulding for room dividers and other do-it-yourself projects, send $4.95 to the Wood Moulding and Millwork Producers, P.O. Box 25278, Dept. HP, Portland, Oregon 97225.

Here's an eye-appealing way to close off a room without giving it a closed-in feeling. Decorative wood mouldings arranged in a lattice pattern serve as a handsome room divider.

Ceramic tile adds value to home

You can increase the value of your home — one of the best investments to have these days — by decorating with ceramic tile, one of the latest trends in residential design.

The fastest growing tiles, in terms of sales, come from Italy. They are available in the U.S. in a wide range of designs and styles, enabling homeowners to create an individual and distinctive look while at the same time enhancing the intrinsic value of their property.

Italian ceramic tiles are known for their beauty and design, and their durability and easy care make them more practical than vinyl or carpeting.

Eight ways to use tile throughout the house are featured in a new booklet published by the Italian Tile Center. "Decorate Your Home With Italian Ceramic Tile" is available free by writing the Italian Tile Center, Dept. M, 499 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10022.

Color photographs of different rooms, incorporating Italian ceramic tile are shown and described in the 16-page booklet.

According to the Italian Tile Center, whether remodeling, redecorating or starting fresh, Italian ceramic tile can be used in any decorating scheme.

- Use vividly colored ceramic tiles in rooms which do not receive much sunlight to brighten them up.

- Transform an ordinary bathroom with great flair by using patterned Italian tiles to create murals on the floors and walls.

- Glazed Italian ceramic tiles make highly practical and attractive kitchen countertops. They resist stains and hot pots and pans will not leave scorch marks.

- To make a small room appear larger, use the same tiles on the floors and walls.

- If there is a large amount of floor space to cover, use a patterned tile or alternate with two different tile shapes, for example, a hexagon and square, to bring the floor and walls together.

- Create a "rug" on the floor of a family room using Italian tile. It is much easier to keep clean than the real thing and will not require rolling up for dancing or children's games.

BEFORE remodeling with ceramic tile.

AFTER using "Decorating Ideas with Ceramic Tile" booklet.

Ceramic tile is one of the latest trends in residential design.

Basement hints

basement stair at the opposite end of the 23 foot x 36 foot room.

(8) In the corner at the left end of the study center and attached to it is a triangular electronic entertainment center with a television set, which is exposed to view, and a record player and records in the cabinets below and to the side. The diagonal entertainment center was also framed with 2 by 4's and finished off with the Masonite brand hardboard paneling.

(9) As is true in most basements, the ceiling gave some problems, because of the beam, which hung about 7 inches below the joists, and equally deep heating ducts alongside. To conceal them meant that the ceiling had to be suspended and covered with ceiling tiles. The ceiling, thus, is built on two levels. At the sides of the room, it is hung just below the joists. Under the beams and ducts, it is dropped. The sides of the dropped areas are faced with paneling, as are the ceiling support posts.

(10) The layout of the room even allows for a ping-pong table, pool table or similar recreation area. Lighting fixtures were installed wherever they were most likely to be required; but the largest unit — a giant soffit light over two of the study cubicles — is meant primarily to create a soft glow that sets a quiet, relaxed mood for the room. Most of the other lighting — bright 4-foot fluorescents over the ping-pong table; incandescents in the TV viewing area — was recessed in the ceiling. In the three study cubicles, a single fluorescent fixture is mounted on the wall above the desk.

Remodeling facts are highlighted

Kitchen remodeling should be designed to improve efficiency as well as appearance. Consumers who look for the certification seal of the National Kitchen Cabinet Association when shopping for cabinets are assured of low maintenance and durability, as well as good looks.

The cost of operating a home has increased approximately 150 percent in the last 10 years, report housing experts.

Although the advancing costs of maintenance and repairs is the number one culprit; hikes in insurance, real estate tax and utilities are nearly as high.

...

What's the most commonly reported structural defect in American housing? Basement leaks.

According to a report released by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, 44 percent of the homes with basements reported leaks.

How to install insulation

Whether you're planning to build a picture frame or add insulation to an attic floor, the trip from planning to completion can be made easier.

Consider installing insulation, for example. Pay special attention to selecting the material, the amount required and the tools necessary to get the job done right.

A variety of insulating materials are available today. All, however, do not lend themselves to do-it-yourself installation. Mineral fiber insulation, eight fiber glass or rock wool, does.

Available as performed blankets and batts, or as pouring wool — meant to be poured in attic floor cavities — mineral fiber insulation is one of the most popular insulating materials among do-it-yourselfers because it is easy to install.

When shopping for insulation, ask the retailer for the fact sheet on R-values. R-values measure the resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value the greater the insulating power.

The Mineral Insulation Manufacturers Association recommends R-30 for attics and R-19 for walls. In colder climates, R-38 is recommended.

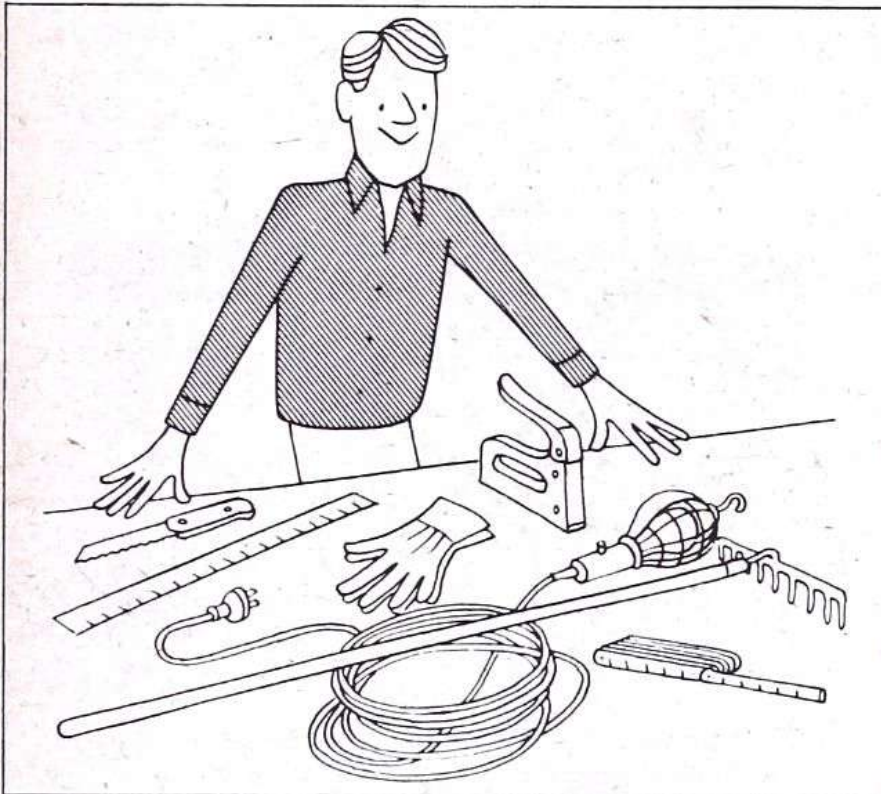

Once you've chosen the type of insulation, determine the square footage of the area to be covered. Multiply the width of the area by the length. Adjust this figure to allow for studs and joists. To do this, multiply the area either by 0.90 if the studs are 16 inches on center, or by 0.94 if they are 24 inches on center. The result is the number of square feet of insulation required.

The only tools necessary are a sharp knife, a straight edge and a tape measure. You may also want to have a rake handy to level loose-fill insulation such as pouring wool. Walk boards are also handy. To avoid possible skin irritation, wear work gloves and loose-fitting clothes, including a long-sleeved shirt and, if needed, a dust mask.

Further instructions and advice on adding insulation are in two useful booklets, "How to Save Money by Insulating Your Home" and "Save on Home Heating and Cooling Costs: Insulate Your Attic Now."

Each booklet is available for 40 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Mineral Insulation Manufacturers Association, Dept. SR, 382 Springfield Ave., Summit, N.J. 07901.

Either fiber glass or rock wool mineral fiber insulation is a good choice for do it yourselves considering installing insulation. Besides the tools shown above, wear loose-fitting clothing and, if needed, a dust mask.
